SCARLET FEVER ISOLATION

PAPER BY CHAIRMAN BOARD OF HEALTH

The following article on Scarlet Fever was written by Dr. Francis Geo. Curtis, chairman of the Newton Board of Health, and read before the last convention of the American Public Health Association:

In making an intelligent campaign against any communicable disease, some knowledge of the cause of the disease and of its method of transmission from person to person is necessary. In all those diseases in which there has been a marked advance in methods of control, and in which there should be a marked diminution of occurrence, we have this knowledge; but in the case of scarlet fever we have no such knowledge to assist us in the struggle to control it, and the best that can be done is to follow out such lines as experience has shown are most efficient. We know practically nothing about the true etiology of scarlet fever, we are unacquainted with the nature of the specific organism which causes it, and we are ignorant of its method of transmission from person to person, whether it is by means of the scales of desquamation or by the various excreta.

This question of the method of transmission of infection in scarlet fever is one which is of great importance, for until the method has been satisfactorily determined, our efforts to control its spread must be at best empirical.

There are many theories as to the site of the contagion, and also many as to the method of its transmission from the sick to the well. Perhaps the most time-honored belief is that the contagion lies in the scales of desquamation and is transmitted by that means and that as long as desquamation continues, so long is the patient dangerous and to be restrained; and that when desquamation ceases, the patient can be safely released.

There are a number of facts that seem to contradict the truth of this theory. Cases of scarlet fever without eruption are capable of producing typical scarlet fever in others. Here, of course, there are no scales which can be considered responsible for the spread of contagion. Again, we frequently find cases of scarlet fever where one member of a large family is in active desquamation at the time of discovery, where no isolation of the sick child has been attempted, and yet the other children in the family escape. Instances have been known where children have presented their playmates with fragments of skin as souvenirs, without any apparent untoward results. There is a large and steadily increasing number of observers who are skeptical in regard to the scales being the chief method of transmission of contagion, and some even go so far as to doubt whether the scales transmit contagion at all.

Le Sage believes that the discharges from the mouth and throat are the means of spreading scarlet fever, and believes that desquamation has nothing to do with it. He claims to have caused scarlet fever in the human subject by inoculation with the buccal discharge, and to have failed to cause it by inoculation with the scales. He also asserts that the patient may be safely released from detention at the end of what he calls the "throat cycle", which he states lasts about 15 days. This is a much shorter period of danger than is given by any other observer.

Dr. Moore, Medical Health Officer of Huddersfield, England, advocates disregarding desquamation altogether and the releasing of patients if the nose and throat are normal. He claims thus to have reduced the average stay in hospitals from 44.3 days to 29 days.

For a long time it has been the custom to hold under observation patients who have finished desquamation but who have a discharge from the ear or from a suppurating gland, and gradually the custom of continuing the period of observation on account of a discharge from mucous membranes has extended, until in many communities it is customary to hold patients in restraint if they have any discharge from the ear or nose. Out of 33 cities in the United States and Canada, where the information was secured, 14 take the cessation of desquamation as a sign that the patient can be released from restraint with safety; the others continue the restraint until all nasal and aural discharge has ceased.

During the past year the writer has seen one case where a vaginitis seemed to be the cause of a second case. Careful investigation failed to show any other cause of infection. Other observations have shown that patients with a nasal discharge, but free from desquamation when released, invariably caused other cases within a week; while patients not free from desquamation, but without a nasal discharge, did not so cause other cases. It is safe to say that the cessation of desquamation is not the true sign of freedom from danger and that we must hold cases under restraint until all discharges, whether from mucous surfaces or from wounds, have ceased.

The belief that scarlet fever can be transmitted from the sick to the well by fomites, or by a third person who has not the disease himself, has long been held, and is the foundation of many of our rules governing the control of members of a family where scarlet fever is present. In spite of many apparently well-authenticated examples of the transmission of scarlet fever by such means, it is fair to assume that it resembles many other communicable diseases in this respect, and cannot be so transmitted, except within a very short time after exposure and under certain easily preventable conditions.

In a recent paper on "The Importance of Contact Infection," Dr. Chapin, of Providence, has drawn attention to the carelessness of persons who come in contact with communicable diseases, a carelessness to which many instances of the transmission of infection are due. The experience of the Pasteur Hospital in treating communicable disease without many instances of cross infection, by simply observing aseptic precautions, proves almost conclusively that by care the danger of transmitting scarlet fever by means of a third person may be practically eliminated.

If we admit that the naso-pharyngeal secretions in scarlet fever are capable of transmitting infection, and we must admit it, then we must grant that it is possible for a person who has recently touched such discharges, and neglected to wash his hands after so doing, to transmit the disease to others for a short time after contact. It also follows that a proper cleansing of the hands and clothing will render such a person harmless. There are many light, unrecognized cases going about freely. In the free interchange of articles from mouth to mouth which takes place among children, infection can be easily passed from one to another. The custom of taking alternate sucks from a favorite style of candy known as "all day sucker" is an example of this

MR. KEATING DEAD.

Mr. John P. Keating for over thirty years a resident of Newton Highlands died last week Thursday at the home of his daughter at Rochester, N. Y., from an attack of apoplexy. Mr. Keating was 71 years of age and was a contractor for many years retiring from active business about five years ago. He was twice married and is survived by a widow, two sons, George M. Keating of Newton and Frank Keating of New York and one daughter, Mrs. Sarah Monte of Rochester, N. Y. Funeral services were held Saturday morning with requiem mass at the Church of Our Lady in Newton and the interment was at St. Joseph's Cemetery, Needham.

NEW RAILROAD FEATURES.

Four important new features in railroad operations have been determined upon in consequence of the closer relations lately established between the New York, New Haven & Hartford and the Boston & Albany, under trackage rights lately obtained by the New Haven on the Boston & Albany. Two new loop-lines, or passenger-train circuits, in and out of Boston, are shortly to be operated. Furthermore, improved train services for the New Haven have already gone into effect over two important sections of the Boston & Albany.

The trackage rights thus secured by the New Haven are authorized by the general railroad laws of Massachusetts. They give the New Haven the same right to run its trains over the respective sections of the Boston & Albany tracks that it has on its own lines.

For the new "Needham circuit" of the New Haven, trackage rights over that portion of the Albany's Newton circuit between Newton Highlands and Boston will be utilized. The trains of what formerly was the Woonsocket division of the New Haven continued to run over this part of the Newton circuit after its sale to the Boston & Albany until the New Haven's own line between the Dedham Branch and Needham was built to bring them into Boston all the way over New Haven rails. The new relations with the Albany makes practicable the organization of the Needham circuit with a frequent and rapid train service which will do much for the development of one of the most attractive suburban regions. On the railroad map of Greater Boston the two circuits, the Newton and the Needham, will form a sort of irregular figure 8, the stretch between Newton Highlands and Boston being common to both circuits.

FINED $50. EACH

Herbert O. Davis and John S. Snowden were arrested last week Thursday night by Officers Goode and Tibbetts for violation of the liquor law and in court Wednesday morning were fined $50 by Judge Kennedy. Davis is said to be the proprietor of the Pigeon Hill house at Riverside and Snowden is a waiter in that place. Liquor selling has long been suspected at this place but it was hard to secure evidence. Officer Goode, however, is a resourceful man, and he arrived at the place last week Thursday in an automobile, with Officer Tibbetts as a companion, both in plain clothes. Alleging that they had been sent there by friends they were finally served with several bottles of beer, after the proprietor had interviewed the chauffeur. Payment was made with a marked bill and then two bottles of beer were purchased which were unopened and shown as evidence in court. Both men paid the fines imposed.

CITY HALL NOTES.

City Clerk Grant has adopted a new style of voting list. Instead of having the names listed alphabetically, they are now arranged by streets and numbers. The change was made to reduce the size of the voting list.

Mr. Ernest Harvey of the City Engineers office has returned from a long vacation in Nova Scotia.

Mr. William P. Morse, assistant city engineer will spend his vacation next week in Nova Scotia.

The Registrars of Voters have certified to names on the papers to nominate Albert P. Langtry as secretary of the commonwealth, Robert Luce as lieutenant governor, Levi S. Gould as county commissioner, William C. Dillingham as clerk of courts, and Edwin O. Childs as register of deeds.

Miss Gertrude Bourne of the city clerk's office is spending her vacation at Ocean Park, Me.

Mr. Arthur G. Hosmer has been elected chairman of the Republican city committee in place of Mr. Albert P. Carter, resigned and Mr. Howard Emerson has been elected secretary in place of Mr. Hosmer.

MORSE-COMEGRYS.

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. I. B. Harrington, 267 Church street was the scene of a very quiet wedding when Miss Marguerite Clark Morse became the wife of Mr. Edward Tiffin Comegrys. The marriage service was read by the Rev. Dr. Laurens MacLure of Grace church and the wedding music was played by an aunt of the bride, Mrs. Estella Hall Reade of Ripon College, Wisconsin.

Miss Morse is the daughter of Mrs. Frank B. Morse and is well known in Newton where she has lived for nearly ten years. The groom is in the Pay Department of the U. S. Army and has been stationed in this section for two years, during which time he has lived in Newton.

After a three weeks outing at Lake Winnepesaukee, Mr. and Mrs. Camegrys will go to Cheyenne, Wyoming, where they will be at home after September first.

BISHOP MALLALIEU DEAD

VENERABLE METHODIST PRELATE PASSES ON

Bishop Willard F. Mallalieu, one of the oldest Methodist church officials in the country died last Tuesday night at his home on Grove street, Auburndale, after an illness of about five weeks.

Bishop Mallalieu was noted for his plain speaking, his aggressive evangelism and his strict adherence to the tenets of the church and his insistence upon pure life, sound doctrine and high character of those whom he was called upon to ordain to the ministry of the Christian gospel.

He was born in Sutton, Dec. 11, 1828, the son of John and Lydia (Emerson) Mallalieu.

He attended the academies at East Greenwich, Conn. and Wilbraham, and graduated from Wesleyan university in 1857.

He was converted in the first Methodist meeting he ever attended, at the age of 12 years, and soon afterward joined the church. Before he was out of his teens he told his father that he was going to be a bishop.

During his senior year in college, he did some effective speaking on the stump in the campaign for Fremont and Dayton, in 1856.

Immediately upon his graduation he was ordained as a preacher, his first pastorate, 1858-9, being at Grafton. Subsequent charges were at Chelsea, Lynn, Charlestown, Bromfield st., Boston, Chelsea, Worcester, South Boston. Later he traveled in Europe a year, and on his return served at Bromfield st. and at Chelsea.

In 1882 he was appointed presiding elder of the Boston district and served three years.

In 1872 he was elected delegate to the general convention, in which his work was influential in the election of his friend, Gilbert Haven, to the bishopric.

He was a delegate to the general conventions in 1880 and 1884, at the latter being elected as bishop.

He chose his first residence as an episcopate in New Orleans, afterward removing to Buffalo in succession to Bishop John H. Vincent, and later coming to Boston, where he established his official residence, with his family home in Auburndale, where he has lived ever since.

Bishop Mallalieu was a total abstainer from everything which he deemed questionable, and in this he included tobacco as well as alcoholic beverages. In his examination of candidates for the ministry he was careful to inquire into their habits in this regard, holding these to be even more essential than their declarations of faith, their knowledge of theology or their brilliant talents.

He was a champion of the outcast, his sympathetic and lovable nature won the affection and reverence of the people of the south.

He was particularly the friend of the negro. He espoused the antislavery cause before the war, aided the cause of the freedmen after Lincoln's proclamation, and at the death of Bishop Haven in 1884 succeeded him as the presiding officer of the Freedmen's Aid association.

Bishop Mallalieu married, Oct. 13, 1858, Eliza Francis Atkins of Sandwich. She was the daughter of a retired wealthy sea captain. Two children were born to them—a son and a daughter.

He was a member of the New England historic genealogical society, Massachusetts total abstinence society, Anti-Saloon league, Evangelistic association of New England and Boston evangelistic society (of ministers); a trustee of Boston university, the Wesleyan academy at Wilbraham, the East Greenwich academy and the New Orleans university.

Funeral services will be held from the Centenary M. E. church, Auburndale this afternoon at 2.15. Previous to the public services at the church a private service will be held at his home by Rev. Charles E. Spaulding pastor of the Centenary church.

The services at the church will consist of the eulogy by Bishop John W. Hamilton of Cambridge, Scripture reading by Rev. George H. Spencer, district superintendent of Cambridge, and prayer by Rev. John W. Galbraith, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of Newton Upper Falls, a lifelong friend of Bishop Mallalieu. The music will be furnished by the Mendelssohn male quartet and Mrs. W. F. Hall will be the organist. The selections by the quartet will be "Nearer, My God, to Thee", "Faith of Our Fathers" and "Abide With Me."

The honorary bearers will be Rev. W. E. Vandermark of Medford, Rev. Dr. William Andrew Wood of Lowell, Rev. W. J. Heath of Weston and Rev. Dr. T. C. Watkins of Milford. Following the services the body will lie in the parish house adjoining the church.

The burial will occur Saturday in the family lot in Bay View cemetery at Sandwich. The services at the grave will be conducted by Rev. George S. Butters, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of Newton.

Considerable excitement was caused in Nonantum square Friday evening when as the result of an intoxicated man falling under an express wagon another man was taken with a fit and a young woman fell in a faint on the sidewalk, cutting her head.

In attempting to cross the street the intoxicated man pitched under a Newcomb's express wagon, Edward Leahy of Gardner street, seeing the accident, was stricken with a fit and fell on the sidewalk and was carried into a store, where he was treated by Dr. Joseph Stanton. A young woman who gave her name as Margaret De Lancy of Watertown became overcome at seeing Leahy's plight and fainted, cutting her head on the edge of the sidewalk.

She was carried into a fruit store, where after being treated and resting for an hour she was able to proceed to her home. Meanwhile an ambulance had been called and Leahy was removed to his home in Gardner street.

The wounded cared for, the police started to find the man who had caused all the trouble, but as he had not been injured he had crawled to his feet in the excitement and wandered away.

Gems From Pope.

With the exception of Shakespeare, Pope is the author of more familiar phrases than any other writer of modern times. Here are a few of his gems:

"Shoot folly as she flies." "Hope springs eternal in the human breast." "Man never is but always to be blessed." "Whatever is is right." "The proper study of mankind is man." "Grows with his growth and strengthens with his strength." "Order is heaven's first law." "Worth makes the man and want of it the fellow." "Honor and shame from no condition rise; act well your part—there all the honor lies." "An honest man's the noblest work of God." "Thou wert my guide, philosopher and friend." "Every woman is at heart a rake." "Woman's at best a contradiction still." "Just as the twig is bent the tree's inclined." "Who shall decide when doctors disagree?" "A little learning is a dangerous thing." "To err is human, to forgive divine." "Beauty draws us with a single hair." "Fools rush in where angels fear to tread." "Damn with faint praise." "The many headed monster."

Sharp Banking.

Everybody is familiar with the little savings banks for ten cent pieces, the kind that holds fifty dimes and cannot be opened until it is full. Such a bank was given to a little girl and her brother, the children of a Washington official. It contained one dime, a nest egg. The day was warm and soon the desire of the joint owners of the bank to convert the deposit into two glasses of soda water became all but uncontrollable. The question was how to get the money out. Finally the boy—destined, his father thinks, to become a Napoleon of finance—hit upon a plan and dragged his sister to the nearest drug store. There he explained the situation to the man behind the counter and broached his plan of operations. In short, he asked the man to lend him forty-nine ten cent pieces for a minute or two. The man was ready for a customer, produced the needed coins, and the little boy and girl went home penniless and happy.—New York Tribune.

The Blow on the Jaw.

A man struck with any degree of force upon the mental area of the jaw, although he may be in perfect physical condition, instantly collapses and falls to the ground, says a medical journal. The attitude assumed in recovery, which may be instantaneous or delayed some minutes, is most characteristic. He squirms about, raises his head and rolls his eyes in an attempt to locate himself. He tries to get on his side and elbow; he endeavors to rise upon his hands and knees. If he regains his feet he staggers like a drunken man, and should be proceeded to reopen hostilities he is usually promptly "put out" by his adversary. The blow is practically never fatal; the heart's action is never unduly accelerated; the pulse and respiration are normal; the pupils are normal; there is no headache, no sweats, no cold extremities, no pallor—none of the ordinary signs of shock or concussion.

When the Time Comes.

Man little knows what calamities are beyond his patience to bear till he tries them. As in ascending the heights of ambition, which look bright from below, every step we rise shows us some new and gloomy prospect of hidden disappointment, so in our descent from the summits of pleasure, though the vale of misery below may appear at first dark and gloomy, yet the busy mind, still attentive to its own amusement, finds as we descend something to flatter and to please. Still, as we approach the darkest objects appear to brighten and the mortal eye becomes adapted to its gloomy situation.—Goldsmith.

When the World is Full.

The mean decennial rate of increase in the population of the world is 8 per cent, and at this rate the 28,000,000 square miles comprising the fertile regions of the earth, which have been computed can only support 207 persons per square mile, will have their maximum population of 5,904,000,000 persons in the year 2072. This estimate allows fourteen persons per square mile in the 18,000,000 square miles of steppes and deserts.

Cautious.

"Spending the night railway traveling doesn't improve one's personal appearance, does it?" said a haggard looking man to a barber.

"Well, I don't know what you looked like when you started," responded the knight of the razor, "but perhaps you're right!"—London Mail.

The Real Struggle.

"I suppose, now that you are married and settled down, life is a struggle for bread."

"Not exactly. It's more of a struggle with bread."—Judge's Library.

Proved His Innocence.

"Prisoner, you are accused of having stolen a gold watch."

"It's false. In the first place I never stole it, and in the second it wasn't gold."—Pele Mele.

Too Willing.

"Say, Frost, lend me your razor, will you?"

"Gladly."

"Oh, if it's as dull as that I don't want it."—Housekeeper.

Not Edible.

Him—Are you fond of "La Boheme" Her—I don't know. It depends altogether on what kind of dressing you put on it.—Toledo Blade.

Norumbega Park—On last Sunday evening the management of Norumbega Park inaugurated an innovation at the park in the form of a Sunday night concert in the magnificent open air theatre which proved so successful that they have decided to repeat the experiment next Sunday evening, August 6th. In seasons past at Norumbega there has been no entertainment in the open air theatre on Sunday evenings and the management having been besieged with requests from patrons who find Sunday their only opportunity to visit this resort, for some sort of an entertainment has finally inaugurated this policy of Sunday night concerts. The programme which includes musical features and moving pictures will be offered this Sunday evening. In the open air theatre the coming week a vaudeville programme of exceptional excellence is offered. Heading the list is the Carlo Grand Opera Quartette in selections from the operas including "Il Trovatore", "Carmen", "Faust", "Traviata", "Lohengrin", "The Bohemian Girl" etc. Another equally important act of an entirely different nature will be the Scotch comedian, Jack McKay, in a singing, dancing and story telling act of the Harry Lauder type. Leopold and Francis will be seen in their black face comedy musical act which is making a specially strong hit in vaudeville this season. Other acts of equal excellence and similar novelty will be seen and heard the coming week, and the evening programme will conclude as usual with new motion pictures.

AN OLD TIME EXPLOSION.

Its Curious Phases Told by a Seventeenth Century Scribe.
An old chronicler tells a curious story of an explosion which occurred in London Jan. 4, 1649. A ship chandler, it seems, "about 7 of the clock at night, being busy in his shop about barreling up of gunpowder, it took fire and in the twinkling of an eye blew up not only that, but all the houses thereabout to the number of fifty or sixty. The number of persons destroyed by this blow could never be known, for the next house but one was the Rose tavern, a house never at that time of night but full of company. And in three or four days, after digging, they continually found heads, arms, legs, etc." The most interesting part of the account comes further on: "In the digging they found the mistress of the house of the Rose tavern sitting in her bar and one of the drawers standing by the bar's side, with a pot in his hand, only stifled by dust and smoke, their bodies being preserved whole by means of great timbers falling across one upon another. "There was also found upon the upper leads of Barking church a young child lying in a cradle as newly laid in bed, neither child nor cradle having the least sign of fire or other hurt. It was never known whose child it was, so that one of the parish kept it for a memorial, for in the year 1608 I saw the child, grown to be then a proper maiden."

The Green Plover.
Every "man on the land" knows the lapwing, or green plover, though he may not know that this bird is one of the very best friends of the farmer and literally worth its weight in gold several times. It takes its proper name, lapwing, from the regular, slow flapping of the long, rounded wings. Because of its peculiar cry it is popularly known in England as the peewit and in Scotland as peewee. The French say that it can count "eighteen" (eighteen in French is dix-huit, which is pronounced deezewet). The peewit is found in every country in Europe and Asia. In Great Britain it was once very common, being chiefly found in marshes, moors and meadows, but its numbers are gradually decreasing because its eggs are collected and sold as "plover's eggs," for which there is a large demand during the proper season.—Smallholder.

The Hawaiian Language.
The language of Hawaii is very simple. To one who hears it for the first time comes the conviction that the aborigines expressed their sentiments in primitive vowel sounds, to which some consonants have been added. Each vowel is sounded as in Latin, and the words are easily pronounced by one who is patient and wishes to speak distinctly. The pronunciation will be all the better if the speaker will draw out, almost drawl, the vowel sounds, for which reason the language is well suited to the doleful Hawaiian wail. Say Hoo-noo-luu-luu and let the word sing itself.—Itinerary Magazine.

Glass Windows.
The first glass window in England was put up in an abbey about the year 680. Glass windows, however, did not become general for nearly hundred years, and as late as 1570 the glass casements at Alnwick castle, the Duke of Northumberland's seat, were regularly taken down when the family was away from home.

One Thing Sure.
"My wife went to town today to get a good plain cook."
"Did she get one?"
"I don't know whether she's a good one yet, but she's plain, all right!"—Hullshire American

We judge ourselves by what we feel capable of doing, while others judge us by what we have already done.—Longfellow.

—The Newton police ball team was given its first defeat Tuesday morning on the Common by a scrupulous aggregation calling themselves the All Stars. The score was 15 to 4, the blue coats being unable to fathom the delivery of "Clancy" the incognito pitcher of the winning team. "Clancy" added insult to injury by refusing to remove his coat while pitching.

THREE CONFERENCES AT NORTHFIELD.

East Northfield, Mass., July 29.
Two Missionary Conferences and a Sunday School Convention have just closed their sessions at Northfield. The Women's Foreign Mission Conference was the largest of these, making a new record of 438 delegates. "The World in Northfield," a daily representation of scenes from five eastern countries, was the feature. Dr. Arthur J. Brown of New York gave a splendid series of missionary addresses upon Asiatic religions.

The Home Mission Conference, although not so large in numbers, ranked high in influence and interest, because of its presentation of the claims of our own country. Ex-Governor John G. Brady of Alaska, Dr. James A. Francis of Boston, and Dr. Charles L. Thompson of New York, headed the list of speakers. The American Indians, Porto Rico, and the Mountaineers were among the problems discussed.

The Summer School of Sunday School Methods, held at the same time as the Home Mission session, was the jolliest and most informal. Outside of school hours impromptu entertainments, field sports, and long drives were the program. Mrs. A. A. Lamoreaux of Chicago, Miss Nannie Lee Frayser of Louisville, and Rev. Charles E. McKinley of Rockville, Conn., were the principal members of the faculty. Hamilton S. Conant of Boston, State Secretary, was the Dean.

All preparations are being made now for the General Conference of Christian Workers, for which several of the leading British divines as well as American speakers have been secured. This opens on August 4th and continues until the 20th.

SCARLET FEVER

method. It is by such means as these that the cases which were formerly attributed to fomites are undoubtedly transmitted. The theory that any communicable disease can be carried from the sick to the well by fomites is a very convenient manner of accounting for its spread, and it is also one which saves much work. It is far easier to assume that something must have carried the infection to the new case than it is to investigate the conditions carefully and show that it is due to personal contact with an unsuspected case.

For how long is a patient with scarlet fever dangerous to others? This is a very important question, and one in regard to which there are many opinions. The period of quarantine varies from two to six weeks in those cities which have a fixed period, but fully half of those asked have no fixed period.

In July, 1899, Cutler, of Boston, in a paper on "The Incubation and Infectiveness of Some Contagious Diseases," said: "Scarlet fever is infectious from the appearance of the earliest symptoms, and until desquamation has ceased and all signs of inflammation of the mucous membrane shall have passed away." In concluding, he says, "The period of isolation should be seven weeks from the appearance of the eruption; desquamation should have ceased, the nose and throat should be healthy, and all complications should be over." Forscheimer, in the "Twentieth Century of Practice," says that it is not safe to release the patient before the termination of the sixth week. The so-called primary desquamation is finished in about four weeks, and it is safe to release a patient at the end of that time, provided the nose, throat, and ear, are normal.

It seems that the best plan is to have no fixed period of quarantine, but allow the patient to be released when primary desquamation has ceased, and there is no sign of discharge from the nose, throat, or ears.

In the opinion of the writer even primary desquamation has nothing to do with the transmission of infection, and the patient may be released as soon as the mucous membrane becomes normal. It is very clear that in dealing with scarlet fever we are confronted with a disease of uncertain origin, and one of which the method of transmission as well as the duration is more or less uncertain. We must devise some means of dealing with it, which, while effective, will entail as little discomfort upon the family of the patient as is consistent with efficiency.

The questions to be decided are: What shall be done with the patient? What shall be done with the adult members of the family? What shall be done with the other children of school age? The ideal way of answering all these questions is by the removal of the patient to a hospital as soon as the diagnosis is made. By so doing we remove a focus of infection at once, allow the adult members of the family to continue their avocations, and interfere as little as possible with the education of the other children; in fact, the advantages of this method are so obvious that it seems unnecessary to do more than mention them. Unfortunately, however, there are cases where it is impossible to remove the patient, and it is these cases that must be considered. The commonest method of treating such cases is by the segregation of the whole family during the continuance of the disease. This method, which may be called the method of quarantine, evidently has its foundation in the belief that a third person can transmit the disease.

Eleven cities in the United States of over 100,000 inhabitants, out of nineteen that replied, state that it is the custom to segregate the whole family during the continuance of the disease if the patient remains at home, and for a varying period after recovery and disinfection. This custom appears to inflict an unnecessary hardship upon the well members of the family, without giving a corresponding benefit to the public at large.

In the opinion of the writer, the isolation of the patient is the preferable method. Under proper direction and supervision by the medical inspector this home isolation can be made perfectly effective, and when this is accomplished there is no necessity of segregating the other members of the family. Let it be understood that any violation of the orders of the medical inspector will be followed by a strict quarantine of the whole family, and there will be little trouble about having the orders obeyed. Of course the inspector must make frequent and unexpected domiciliary visits to see that his directions are carried out. If we once discard the idea of the transmission of contagion by fomites, the problem of proper isolation at home becomes simple. It is a very poor house that has not one room which can be used as a sick room, and the passage through the door must be forbidden to everyone but those whose business takes them there.

The nurse or attendant must understand that she can prevent the transmission of contagion by proper care, and what is fully as important, that she can and will spread contagion by carelessness. When she leaves the sick room she must leave her outer clothing in the room, wash her face and hands carefully before passing out, and then put on her outer clothing. In this way there will be no danger of contact infection, and it will be safe for her to go out. The excreta should be treated with one of the many disinfecting agents before removal from the room. Soiled linen may be enclosed in bags and holed, bag and all, before being washed. Dishes and similar articles used by the patient may be boiled in the room, or immersed in hot water before removal from the room, and then taken out and boiled. By such isolation the well members of the family cannot become carriers and may be permitted to go about freely.

The treatment of the children of school age is a more difficult problem, as scarlet fever is essentially a disease of childhood, and the majority of cases occur during the school age. It is almost universally customary to exclude the well children from school during the continuance of the disease, and for a certain time after the recovery of the patient; in fact in many states such exclusion is required by law, provided the children remain at home. In Massachusetts they are permitted to return to school when the board of health certifies that they are free from danger of conveying contagion. This is a very excellent provision, as it permits the local board of health to exercise its judgment in regard to excluding the well children from school. Where the isolation is satisfactory to the medical inspector, there seems to be no reason why the well children should not be allowed to continue at school even though they remain in the house. Under an efficient medical inspection of schools, the children may be allowed to return to school at the end of a week from the occurrence of the first case. This observation period will give time for the appearance of the disease, should any of the well children have been infected by the first case before isolation has been enforced. At the end of that period the children may be allowed to return to school upon the certification by the board of health that the isolation of the case is satisfactory. The school physician should, of course, pay careful attention to any such children, watching for any untoward symptoms. By such a system the danger of infecting others can be practically eliminated. In communities where there is no medical inspection of schools, there is slightly more danger in allowing the well children to return to school during the continuance of the disease, but with careful isolation and supervision it can be done with safety.

In conclusion, it appears from our present knowledge, that scarlet fever is a disease that is transmitted by contact and not by fomites; that the scales of desquamation play very little, if any part, in the transmission of contagion, the chief danger lying in the buccal, nasal, and anal secretions; and that the release of each case should be decided upon its merits.

As in all communicable diseases, it is better to remove each case to a hospital, but should this be impossible, it is better to isolate the patient and allow the other members of the family to continue their regular vocations, educational and otherwise, as long as the isolation is maintained to the satisfaction of the board of health.

The Strength of Infants.

The myth of the infant Hercules who strangled two serpents in his cradle may not be a myth at all, but a fact. Modern science has proved that it is a possible feat. The newborn babe is relatively much stronger than a full grown man, according to the result of medical tests. The muscles of the forearm are surprisingly strong. A few hours after birth a baby suspended by its finger to a stick or to the finger of a person can hold itself in the air for ten seconds and in the case of particularly strong infants for as long as half a minute. At four days old the child's strength has increased, and the time is two and a half minutes for 98 per cent of babies. The maximum is attained at a fortnight. Few infants can hang on for more than one and a half minutes, though one exceptionally young Hercules remained suspended for two minutes and thirty-eight seconds by his right hand. After that he hung on with his left for fifteen seconds longer.

She Got Her Manuscript.

George Elliot was always solicitous about her manuscripts and was afraid she should lose them. Blackwood had occasion to send her the manuscript of "Daniel Deronda." She would not have it entrusted to the mail, and Mr. Blackwood said he would send it by his footman the next day.

"Oh, don't," the author said. "He might stop at a public house and forget it!"

Mr. Blackwood explained that this footman was a perfectly sober man of high character and went on to praise the man's virtues, but this did not reassure her at all. "If he is the sort of chivalrous Bismarck that you describe," she said, "he is just the kind that would stop and help at a fire."

This was a contingency that Mr. Blackwood could not bear to consider. He promised that some member of his family would bring the manuscript, and next day, in fact, Mr. Blackwood drove over with it.

When Shaw Was Married.

"I was very ill when I was married," Bernard Shaw once wrote, "altogether a wreck on crutches and in an old jacket which the crutches had worn to rags. I had asked my friends, Graham Wallis and Henry Salt, to act as witnesses, and, of course, in honor of the occasion they were dressed in their best clothes. The registrar never imagined I could possibly be the bridegroom; he took me for the inevitable beggar who completes all wedding processions. Wallis, who is considerably over six feet high, seemed to him to be the hero of the occasion, and he was proceeding to marry him calmly to my betrothed when Wallis, thinking the formula rather strong for a mere witness, hesitated at the last moment and left the prize to me."—"George Bernard Shaw—His Life and Works," by A. Henderson, M. A.

The Word Shibboleth.

The word "shibboleth," now applied to any kind of party watchword, has a Scriptural origin. In the fifth and sixth verses of the twelfth of Judges we read: "And the Gileadites took the fords of Jordan against the Ephraimites, and it was so that when any fugitive of Ephraim said, Let me go over, the men of Gilead said unto him, Art thou an Ephraimite? If he said Nay, then they said unto him, Say now Shibboleth, and he said Sibboleth, for he could not pronounce it right. Then they laid hold of him and slew him at the fords of Jordan. And there fell at that time of Ephraim forty and two thousand."

A Vicious Dwarf.

Bebe was the favorite dwarf of the former King Stanislas of Poland. Born in 1741 in Lorraine, at the age of five he was twenty-two inches high and at his death in 1764 thirty-three inches. He was neither physically nor mentally active. Once Count Borowski visited him, and he became so jealous of the former's superior manners and intellectual qualities that he attempted to throw his visitor into the fire, but was prevented by the household.

A Sure Sign.

That levity is a subject that is sometimes worth while avoiding has been learned to the sorrow of a would be undertaker.

At a recent examination of the state undertaking board among the questions asked of the many applicants was the following one: "What do you consider as an infallible sign of death?"

"Crane on the door," answered one.

—Chicago Journal.

Progressing.

"I think Arthur would have proposed to me last night if you hadn't come in the room just when you did."

"What reason have you for believing that?"

"He had just taken both of my hands in his. He had never held more than one of them at a time before."

Tit For Tat.

"Well?"

"She gave him the sack."—Baltimore American.

Hagenback's Narrowest Escape.

I am often asked what is my narrowest escape. Perhaps the following is the closest I have had. I was superintending the dispatch of some animals at the railway station in Hamburg, when a half grown elephant which was standing in one of the trucks with its legs chained suddenly turned round and tried to pin me to the wall. I was at that moment examining a cage containing monkeys. When I entered the car I knew the elephant was cross and should have kept my face toward him. Instead of doing so I turned round to look at something, and at that moment the brute went for me. He tried to pin me to the wall, but fortunately for me his tusks were too wide apart for him to properly grip me. The tusks just grazed my skin on each side of my back. One of my men rushed to the rescue and pulled me down between the animal's head and the wall. They then stood me on my feet to see if my back was broken. With the exception of torn clothing and a grazed skin I was all right.—Wide World.

Stonewall Jackson's Death.

Nothing in the war perhaps, excepting the surrender, ever struck Richmond with such stunning force as the announcement of "Stonewall" Jackson's fall, of the amputation of his arm and finally of his death, following the battle of Chancellorsville. Even the brilliant victory of our arms was placed in total eclipse by this irreparable loss. From the first, when the shy Puritan professor of the Virginia Military Institute had started the armies by his extraordinary daring and military skill, Jackson had taken hold of the popular mind as a supreme favorite. "Old Stonewall," "Old Jack" or "Old Blue Light" was by the soldiers held in the reverence bestowed by Napoleon's grenadiers upon the person of their sacred emperor. With Lee and Jackson to the fore quiet people sitting in their homes felt themselves as behind two massive towers of strength, facing and meeting every adverse wind.—Mrs. Buxton Harrison in Scribner's.

Tragic Tale of a Rat.

The story of the luck of the Howths is well known, and down to very recent times no member of that family would permit a rat to be put to death. It was said that about the year 1750 the twenty-sixth Baron Howth was giving a banquet to his friends when a rat rushed into the hall, followed by several dogs, and, jumping on the table, sat up before Lord Howth as if appealing for protection. He saved its life, and from that moment it never quitted him. At last he set out on a foreign tour, accompanied by his brother, who persuaded him to leave the rat behind. Sitting in a hotel at Versailles, the door suddenly flew open and the rat, dripping wet, came crawling in and went straight to the fire to dry itself. Lord Howth's brother, enraged at the intrusion, seized the poker and dashed out the rat's brains. "You have murdered me!" exclaimed Lord Howth and instantly fell down and expired.—London Tit-Bits.

The Man Eaters.

It seems strange that bears, so fond of all sorts of flesh, running the risks of guns and fires and poison, should never attack men except in defense of their young. Only wolves and tigers seem to have learned to hunt man for food, and perhaps sharks and crocodiles. Mosquitoes and other insects would, I suppose, devour a helpless man in some parts of the world, and so might lions, leopards, wolves, hyenas and panthers at times if pressed by hunger, but under ordinary circumstances perhaps only the tiger among land animals may be said to be a man eater unless we add man himself.—John Muir in Atlantic.

A Blow at Science.

"And the voltaic current," continued the lecturer, "was the discovery of Volta, and its development is a comparatively recent achievement of science."

A still, small individual hoisted himself to a chair in the rear of the hall. "Hold on there, professor! What about the earlier discoveries of Noah?"

"I don't understand you, sir."

"Then brush up! Didn't Noah make the arc light on Mount Ararat?"—Baltimore News.

Odd Churchyard Inscription.

The following quaint inscription is taken from a monument in a London churchyard:

To the memory of Emma and Mary Littleboy, the twin children of George and Emma Littleboy, who died July 16th, 1782.

Two Littleboys lie here, Yet, strange to say, These Littleboys are girls.

From the Richmond "Examiner" of December 2, 1861.

ARRIVAL OF YANKEE PRISONERS.—Some eighteen or twenty sturdy Hessians (mostly German) attached to an Ohio regiment and in the employ of General Rosecranz, were captured a few days since near Romney, in Hampshire county, by a detachment of our forces under General Jackson, and were yesterday brought to this city via Central railroad, under guard as prisoners of war, and consigned to one of the Main street military prisons. These mean looking, turbulent, beer-drinking, chicken stealing, house burning sons of thunder, will, in future, have but little chance to display the peculiar qualities which so admirably fit them to be part and parcel of the grand army of subjugation.

A Fit of the Blues.

It is a hard saying, but "the blues" may generally be traced to one or both of two horrid qualities—greed and laziness. Nine times out of ten the low spirited person is suffering from auto-toxication from too much food taken into the body and too little attention paid to elimination or to proper exercise. The human mechanism can take care of only a certain amount of food. After that point has been passed it seems to turn sullen in its efforts to ignore what it cannot help, and, although it is a wonderfully conducted chemical laboratory up to the limit of its own needs, it is not at all amiable about working overtime. The result is that all superfluous products sent to it are permitted to lie round and become poisonous. This poison is promptly taken up by the blood and carried to all parts of the body, including the brain. The brain, which needs a plentiful supply of clean blood to enable it to do its thinking, is naturally indignant at finding poor and impure blood supplied to it, and, although not actually going on strike, it refuses to be either pleasant or reasonable.—Youth's Companion.

How They Did Hate Wagner.

Wagner's music was at one time violently opposed in England, and Ford Madox Hueffer, whose father was musical critic of the London Times, gives in his "Ancient Lights" some curious instances of the lengths to which the campaign was carried. "The compositions of Wagner were denounced as being atheistic, sexually immoral and tending to further socialism and the throwing of bombs. Wagnerites were threatened with assassination, and assaults between critics of the rival schools were things not unknown in the foyer of the opera. I have in my possession three letters from three different members of the public addressed to my father. The writers stated that unless Dr. Hueffer abstained from upholding the blasphemous music of the future—and in each case the writer used the word blasphemous—he would be respectively stabbed, ducked in a horsepond and beaten to death by hired roughts."

Wonder What Tennyson Said.

In his volume of reminiscences Professor E. B. Poulton writes of a visit to Boston, where he met several notables.

Holmes spoke of Emerson stamping his foot with rage when he could not remember a name. He mentioned the Corbett-Mitchell prizefight, which had just taken place, and said, "I own to a lurking sympathy with prizefighting, perhaps because I am so unfitted for the ring myself." He told Professor Poulton he would never repeat to any one what Tennyson said to him when he entered his house. William James pressed him to do so with the assurance, "There are no reporters here." But Dr. Holmes replied with emphasis: "I have said that I will never tell any one. It was not a thing that I should have supposed any man would say to a guest he had invited to his house."

Faithful to Its Mite Pies.

In England one county still resists the encroachments of the sandwich. Cornwall will have none of it. There the pasty reigns supreme—that delectable compound of meat, onion and potato inclosed in a semicircle of rich brown crust. Pilots, fishermen, farm laborers and school children one and all carry their pasties. These range in size from a comparatively minute semicircle priced in confectioners' shops at twopence to gigantic combinations of meat and crust that no ordinary dish can hold. Even the tramp in Cornwall acorns "travelers' diet" of bread and cheese. He, too, seated by the roadside on a heap of stone, will be observed to draw from some recess in his tattered coat a substantial pasty.—London Globe.

First Masked Ball.

France is the universal parent of the ball as we understand it today. The first noted affair of this character was given at Amiens in 1385 to celebrate the marriage of Charles VI. to Isabella of Bavaria. In 1715 the ball de l'opera was organized by the French government to popularize balls, and gradually they entered into the amusement of the general public. The first masked ball was given by the formidable Catherine de' Medici.

Keeping Cool.

Mrs. Peck—Henry, what would you do if burglars should break into our house some night?

Mr. Peck (valiantly)—Humph! I should keep perfectly cool, my dear. And when, a few nights later, burglars did break in, Henry kept his promise—he hid in the icebox.—Lippincott's.

Versatile.

"They tell me your boy Josh is very versatile."

"He is," replied Farmer Cornstossel patiently. "I never saw anybody who could do so many fool things without repeatin' himself."—Washington Star.

Than He Lost Them.

A professor of Greek who was noted for self appreciation bought a dozen collars and marked the first one with his full name and the others simply "Ditto."—Everybody's.

The cheering news is rumored about the City Hall that the new tax rate to be announced within a few days by the assessors will show a decrease from the present rate of $18.60. While actual figures are not yet available it is known that the sum total of the tax levy is something like $23,000 less than similar figures of last year and on the same valuation will mean about 30 cents on the rate. As there is certain to be some increase in the valuations, an $18.20 or even an $18 tax rate is possible.

SIX CENT TRANSFERS.

The Railroad Commission has consented to a continuation of its order authorizing the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway Company to charge six cents
where transfers are requested. While the Commission finds that the financial condition of the Company is better than it has been before, it believes it is only fair to allow an extension of the six cent privilege, and reserves the right,
without notice, to cancel the order, after receipt of the annual statement of the Company in the fall.

NEW DIRECTOR.

Mr. James H. Hustis of Newton,
vice president of the Boston and Albany R. R. Co. has been chosen a director of the Newton Trust Company.
Mr. Hustis will be associated with some

nity in this directorate, including Mr.

agent for one of the best known insurance companies, Hon. John W. Weeks, congressman and banker, Hon. Seward
W. Jones, granite dealer, Mr. James L.
Richards, president of the Boston Consolidated Gas Companies, Mr. G. Fred Simpson, president Simpson Bros Co.,
Mr. Frank A. Day, banker, Mr. Sydney
Harwood, cotton machinery manufacturer, Hon. George Hutchinson, shoe

lawyer, Mr. William F. Bacon, lawyer,
Mr. Frank J. Hale, agent Saco & Pet-

Mr. Francis Murdock, insurance, Mr.
Allison R. Clapp and Mr. B. F. Bacon, retired. Mr. Frank L. Richardson is treasurer of the Company.

TAX LEVY LESS.

The good news is rumored about the City Hall that the tax levy for the present year will be about $23,000 less than the total of 1910. In exact figures the difference is $23,436.21 of which $7,869.53 is a reduction in the various tax warrants and $15,566.68 is an increase in treasury receipts. The comparative figures are as follows:

County tax	$68,195.00
State tax	106,810.00
Grade crossings	10,418.74

ACCIDENT.

Caruso Giaro, who resides in the rear of 42 Auburndale avenue, West Newton, was seriously injured last night
while attempting to jump off a moving electric car. When the car reached the corner of River street and Auburndale avenue he started to get off backwards and fell to the ground on his head, sustaining severe cuts about the head. He was picked up unconscious and removed to the Newton hospital in the police ambulance, where his name was placed on the dangerous list.

UNDER THE GILDED DOME

The Great and General Court for 1911 was prorogued last Friday evening at seven o'clock after a record breaking session in every respect. Not only in the length of session does this Legislature break records but in the number of matters acted upon, the number of new laws put on the statute books, the number of messages and vetoes from the governor, the number of bills and resolves allowed to become a law without executive approval, and the number of vetoes overridden. It also has been remarkable for the unintelligent interference with legislative work by Governor Foss. It is true that the carefully drawn distinction in our state constitution which separates the executive and legislative departments has been gradually eliminated, and in many respects, this has been for the real benefit of the public, but Governor Foss
has gone farther than of his predecessors in this respect. Not only has he indicated his wishes to individual members of the Legislature, but he has dil-lydallied with measures which he himself favored at first and then vetoed in the final analysis. The Hartford (Conn.) Times, a Democratic paper sets affairs, by stating that "the Massachusetts Legislature of 1911, is the most disreputable body of lawmakers that state has ever produced." Viewed from a Foss standpoint this stricture
may be applicable, but a Legislature which can produce such advanced and intelligent legislation as a thoro direct primary system, can act sanely on the liquor question as embodied in the action on the bar and bottle act, can enact a bill to develop the port facilities of Boston in a most comprehensive manner and can provide adequate transportation measures for a million and a half of people cannot by any manner of means be deemed "disreputable". As a recent writer in the Boston Transcript
very well says:

"Plain common or garden distrust of the governor by the Legislature and doubts of his sincerity, however, are at the bottom of the real collapse of the opportunities of the year. The mere prolongation of the session is only an incidental as compared with this more serious issue. The outside public does not appreciate this as yet. The popular impression is, that during the past seven months the Legislature has been very bad and the governor has been very good. In the popular mind he has been pictured as being a big-framed man mentally as well as physically, a man who at great sacrifice had given up his business to try to straighten out the State and who has been blocked by the wicked Legislature.

Of the Governor the writer goes on to say, "Self seeking, absorbed by admiration of his own abilities, he has deflected the very things for which he was seeking, disorganized the General Court, and made his own word disrespectful. He has played the game to the limit and now must take the consequences. The Legislature of itself might have shown more courage in certain particulars, and would have, had it not been further distracted by rival candidacies in its own membership, but doubt of the governor has checked actual constructive work on that end because after all the governor is made
the final arbiter in the use of power.

Speaker Walker, who is now actively campaigning for the Republican nomination for governor states quite emphatically that Mr. Foss has used the Legislature for his own ends, first, last and always, and as the Worcester Telegram says "If Governor Foss should veto everything in Massachusetts including the sacred codfish, he would be sustained by the blundering blun-ch of Republicans in both branches of the General Court." And this is the fact that really hurts. Men who ought to know better have deserted their colleagues time and time again, and aided the Governor in petty political schemes, even when that fact was glaringly apparent. The Republicans have lacked a real leader and the Governor has made the most of the situation.

Lieutenant Governor Frothingham,
who is chairman of the finance committee of the Governor's council, will undoubtedly be able to tell the voters
a little later, just how much the so-called "experts" have helped the taste in the very recent past. Two Newton men are interested in the hearings this week on this question, Mr. Clinton H. Scovill, whose bill is $4390 and Mr. Harvey
S. Chase who charges $5000. The whole trouble with the expert situation is the lack of time and consequent hurried work which had to be done. Everyone here has complete confidence in the ability of our fellow citizens in their particular field, but the work should have taken months, where weeks and even days were given and the reports were consequently inadequate for the intended purpose and reflected on the men themselves. It is a well known fact that Governor Foss viewed this work chiefly upon its effect on his political fortunes, so the cost is a sheer waste of money.

There is one effect of the direct nomination law which will be a cause of regret the present year, and that is the fact that the candidates are now already in the field and that when the situation, as it now exists, demands the nomination of absolutely the best man

the Republican party can produce, it debars the selection of such men as Samuel J. Elder, our own Samuel L.
Powers or Congressman Weeks, who might be chosen by a convention in the present emergency. In ordinary times, however, the direct nomination law should be of great service to the individual voters.

All three of our present representatives will be candidates again this fall,
for third terms and, their consent to stand again assures Newton a high standing in the next Legislature. Mr.
White will probably be close to representative Washburn of Worcester in his canvass for the Speakership, while Representatives Bothfeld and Ellis will undoubtedly be under the banner of Mr.
Cushing of Boston. The latter seems to be in the lead at present.

Senator Mulligan ought to be willing to retire at the end of three years of service. While he is a charming man personally, and has made a remarkable record of faithfulness in attendance and at roll calls, he does not carry the weight and influence he should in the Massachusetts senate. If Mr. James S. Cannon of Newton, who made a remarkable campaign against Senator Mulligan last year, could be persuaded to stand again,
there is every reason to believe he would be elected. The so called leaders of the Republican party are making a grave mistake in consenting to Senator Mulligan's renomination.

J. C. BRIMBLECOM.

CORRESPONDENCE.

H. T. E. who wrote in your late issue protesting against the nuisance of noisy children who are put to bed out of doors in order that they may breathe pure air is one deserving the thanks of all and the laurels of a reformer. The trouble with H. T. E. is he doesn't go far enough. As he says a man who keeps a dog that disturbs our sleep is liable to a fine of $15. Did he forget that when a dog becomes an intolerable
nuisance it is no crime to take it out and shoot it, could that—but let us not hasten too fast along the path of reform.

Why not follow the example of the owners of certain flats. Why not pass an ordinance making it an offense for any one to harbor within the limits of Newton any child under 10 and then only those guaranteed to keep silent unless spoken to and sleep quietly from nine at night until eight in the morning.

Let us make of Newton a paradise
for those who put their own comfort above all else. No cars, no horse drawn vehicles, no shouting, honking evel odor dispensing automobiles, no pedestrians except those who wear rubber heels and soles to be allowed abroad between 9
P. M. and 7 A. M. No early deliveries of milk nor ice, no tinkling of telephone bells between the same hours.
Abolish the playgrounds and turn the cemeteries into public parks where one may sit or roam in quiet and philosophise on the joys of silence. No tobacco, no rum, no perfumes, no colors
in women's dresses, no beautiful women
to pass us poor men by and compel turning of the head and a possible
straining of the muscles of the neck.

The fall is only a short ways off and with it will come the beginning of interest in the election of a mayor. Let
H. T. E. cast aside modesty let him stand revealed before a silent but enthusiastic people and be assured of an overwhelming election on the platform of "no dogs, no children, no noise but sleep, blessed sleep and heaps of it."

J. C.

I am inclined to believe that "H. T.
E." whose wail about noise during sleeping hours appeared in last week's Graphic, is an unfortunate victim of a too strenuous appetite, who to satisfy his abnormal cravings too frequently visits the provender "nois" before seeking "nature's sweet restorer balmy sleep." The nightmare must be a horrid experience. We women folks, who possess a clear conscience and a contented mind, go to bed to sleep and are not worried or disturbed by the trifling noise made by sleepless infants, the barking of dogs or the disputes of cats.
I am under the impression that "H. T.
E." is an old bachelor. In pity I would recommend that he get married, and if,
in the course of events, he is fortunate enough to become the sire of a numerous scion I am sure that nothing in the world will prove sweeter music
even at the midnight hour, than the yells of the little bundle of nerves that is destined some day to dub him
"papa."

Mrs. Newton.

GLOUCESTER-BOSTON TRIP.

The trip by steamboat from Boston to Gloucester is one of uncommon charm and invigoration. Thousands of tourists are learning that they do not adequately know this historical vicinity thoroughly until they have taken the delightful trip up along the North Shore route. The boats leave weekdays at 10
A. M. sharp (Sundays and holidays 10:15) from the north side of Central wharf; and it is a delightful trip into Massachusetts Bay. There is music aboard, and the service is excellent, if

POLICE NOTES.

The case of Charles Simeone, charged with riding a horse on the grounds of the Albemarle golf club, last Thursday morning, was placed on file Monday morning by Judge Kennedy, in the police court. Simeone, in his testimony, stated that while riding his horse became frightened at a passing team and bolted onto the grounds of the club. In its flight two greens were dug up somewhat by the horse's hoofs. When witness got the horse under control he led him back the same way he went on the grounds.

Three young boys were before Judge
Kennedy in the juvenile session Tuesday morning, charged with ringing in a false alarm from Mt. Ida a few days ago. The boys, after being reprimanded, had their cases continued until October 28th.

B. F. Keith's Theatre—Next week
Mr. Keith will return to modern vaudeville with an all-star bill of present day artists. One of the principal features will be Valerie Bergere and company in a new comedy, "She Wanted Affection." This is said to be one of the funniest and at the same time one of the best of the many sketches that Miss Bergere has produced and her part particularly is very well suited. Another popular legitimate player is George Lawrence,
who all last season was at the Park Theatre in "The Commuters," with her brother Walter Lawrence, she will appear in a new comedy entitled "Just Landed." The bill will include a number of features equally strong, among them being Herbert's Dogs with new tricks even in this line; Welch, Mealy & Montrose, with their baseball absurdities; Cook & Lorenz, the "Chinaman and the Coon;" Methuen Sisters, singing and dancing specialties; Art Bowen
the singing cartoonist, and the Zarrell Brothers.

Friend Beach says he would rather
meet an ugly dog than a human grouch, because he can shoot the dog if necessary.

Libeling Old England.

According to General Pillet of France, the author of "L'Angleterre vue d'un Londres de dans ses Provinces," published in 1910, wife murderers a hundred years ago generally went free in England. In this engaging work the author says that "the murder of a married woman by her husband is hardly recognized as a crime. It is by some rare chance the guilty husband is brought to justice he is bound to be acquitted. This accounts for the heavy death rate among women in England. Most Englishmen of fifty have been married at least three times." Pillet had been a prisoner of war in England and published this work in revenge. It was so full of libelous statements that its circulation was forbidden by the French government, and the few copies available brought very high prices.

Apparently the English did not consider the work very dangerous, as a copy was secured for the British museum.

A Well Deserved Snub.

On one occasion an English gentleman called to see Lord Westmoreland on particular business. He was at breakfast and, receiving him with his usual urbanity, asked the object of his visit. The gentleman said that he felt somewhat aggrieved, as he had brought an official letter of introduction to him from the foreign office and, having learned that his lordship had given a great dinner the night before, was surprised and hurt at receiving no invitation. Lord Westmoreland exclaimed, with his usual heartiness: "God bless me, sir, I am really quite distressed. I think I received the letter of which you speak. I will send for it." Accordingly the letter was brought to him, and on reading it he said to the stranger: "Ah, I thought so! There, sir, is the letter, but there is no mention of dinner in it." On which the gentleman rose and backed out of the room in confusion.

How He Won the Votes.

A physician in a small town wanted to be mayor. Politicians told him he had no chance—the machine was against him. A few days before the election he printed the following card in the paper:

"To the People of Blingtown—I am getting old and have decided that before I die I would like to be mayor of Blingtown. I have no particular platform to run on except that I want the office. I have lived here forty years, have paid my taxes without a murmur, collected what I could and forgiven and forgotten many omissions. If I am not elected I will publish in the Blingtown Herald what I know about people in this community."

When the votes were counted the old doctor received all but three, and those three were cast by people who had moved into the town that spring.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The Property Man Knew.

An English actor tells a good story of the old days of the touring stup companies. They were at Oldham playing a melodrama called "Current Cash." One of the properties essential to the piece was a light rowing scull, with which the hero had to push himself off into the stream. When the company reached Oldham the boat was missing, but the property man promised to have one ready for the evening's performance, says the Pall Mall Gazette. That afternoon, with evident pride, he produced from the sacred recesses of his room a real human skull, and when it was pointed out to him that it was hardly what was required he declared in haughty tones:

"If that skull's good enough for 'Hamlet' it ought to be good enough for a piece like 'Current Cash.'"

Thanking the Bishop.

A vicar in England was taken suddenly ill, and his church warden was in great difficulty about getting a substitute when the bishop of the diocese, hearing of the circumstance, offered to take the Sunday services himself. The church warden, wishing "to do the right thing," at the close of the service went up to the bishop and after thanking him stammered out, "A poorer preacher would have done for us, your lordship, but we were unable to find one!"

The American Temperament.

"You observe," remarked the host, who was showing the distinguished foreign visitor around Newport, "that we Americans devote ourselves to pleasure regardless of expense."

"I'd hardly put it that way," retorted the witty foreigner. "Rather you devote yourselves to expense regardless of pleasure."—Boston Transcript.

His Comparison.

"Football is a good actor," said a playwright who was criticizing a New York production wherein the hero's part was very badly cast, "and in this part he does his best; but, by Jove, doesn't he remind you of a man trying to play a Tchaikowsky symphony on a typewriter?"

Hopeless Case.

"Why don't you make him while the sun shines and—"

"Iuh! If I tried to do that I'd just be my luck to get sunstruck."—Philadelphia Ledger.

"Cat!" She Exclaimed.

Nan—Anyway, I don't like his looks. Fan—That's because he looks in my direction rather oftener than he does to yours.—Chicago Tribune.

Honesty is the best policy, but he who is governed by that maxim is not an honest man.—Whately.

MAN KILLED BY WIRE

Nicholas F. Quinn, a laborer employed by the Forestry department of the city was killed Wednesday morning while at work in some trees at the corner of Washington street and Commonwealth avenue, Auburndale. Forest Commissioner Bucknam has always insisted that his men should exercise the greatest care when working in the vicinity of electric wires and in consequence of the accident which took place at Newton on Tuesday afternoon, additional words of caution had been spoken. Indeed, Quinn, himself, only a few minutes before he came in contact with the wire had spoken of the danger. In turning away, however, he touched a wire with his right shoulder and the shock caused him to fall to the ground, a drop of about thirty feet. The ambulance was called but he died on the way to the Hospital. Quinn was 34 years of age and resided with his wife on Gardner street, Newton. Funeral services were held this morning and the interment was at Calvary Cemetery, Waltham.

BISHOP MALLALIEU'S WILL.

The will of Bishop Willard F. Mallalieu of Auburndale has been filed in the Probate Court. The will is dated April 10, 1906, and names his son, Willard Emerson Mallalieu of Auburndale and the Old Colony Trust Company of Boston as executors. He leaves his personal property and $1000 to his son. After leaving 200 of his books to his wife and son to be divided equally he leaves the balance of his library to the New England Methodist Historical Society. He leaves his house at 42 Grove street, Auburndale, to his wife, as long as she lives. At her death the property is to go to his son. To each of his sisters he leaves $100. To Mary Mallalieu Wilson of Windsor, Conn., he leaves $100. To Willard Mallalieu Lovell of Windsor, Conn., he leaves $100. To Willard C. Mallalieu of Jersey City, N. J., he leaves $100. To Willard E. Watkins of Wollaston he leaves $100. He leaves $25 to Francis Mallalieu Tilton, son of Rev. Charles Tilton, of Lynn. To the Trustees of the Methodist Episcopal church at Millbury, Mass., he leaves $200. He leaves all insurance moneys in equal shares to his wife and son.

The residue of his estate he leaves in trust: one-third of the income to be paid to his wife and two-thirds to his son. After their death the principal and unexpended income is to be divided into four parts and distributed as follows: One part to the trustees of the Wesleyan Academy, Wilbraham, Mass., to be added in equal sums to the Ellen Bromfield Mallalieu Fund and the Lydia Emerson Mallalieu Fund. One part to the East Greenwich Academy to establish a fund to be known as the Willard Francis Mallalieu Fund. The income alone to be used for the education and benefit of the sons and daughters of members of the New England Southern Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

One part of the Chartered Fund of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the United States of America, a corporation in the State of Pennsylvania, located at Philadelphia, to create a fund to be known as the Willard Francis Mallalieu Fund.

One part to the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society of the Methodist Episcopal church to create a fund to be known as the Atkins-Mallalieu Fund, the income thereof to be used for the benefit of the New Orleans University, New Orleans, La. No valuation of the estate was filed with the will.

MAN KILLED BY AUTO

Leo Smith, 34, married, who lived in the rear of 468 Watertown street, Newton, was almost instantly killed last evening by being run down and crushed under an automobile.

The car is owned by Howard T. Viets of Arlington, and he and his family were riding in it at the time of the accident.

Howard T. Viets Jr. was operating the car, and after the accident he was arrested and charged with manslaughter. Young Viets was released on $500 furnished by his father, and he will be arraigned in the district court at Waltham on Tuesday morning.

In the automobile at the time of the accident, besides Mr. Viets and his son, were Mrs. Viets and a boy, 11 years old, and a girl 9 years of age. The car was coming from Newton through Watertown street toward Watertown square at a fair rate of speed, and just as the car reached Galen street Smith started to cross the street. Young Mr. Viets checked the speed of his car and turned out. Smith saw the car and stepped back.

After pausing an instant he started again to cross the street. Again young Mr. Viets altered his course and again Smith jumped ahead, and started to run ahead of the rapidly moving automobile. The mudguard hit him and knocked him down and the car passed over his head and body. His skull was fractured, his legs were broken and his body crushed, and he died in the street within a few minutes. Dr. Kelley was called, but Smith was dead.

Associate Medical Examiner Hinchey of Waltham was notified, and he delivered the body to a Newton undertaker, who removed it to his rooms in this city.

Patrolman Andrews, who was on the scene, placed young Viets under arrest and the entire automobile party went to the police station. Viets was released after bail was furnished by his father.

The young man and his parents were very much shocked by the fatality and suffered greatly tonight from nervousness. Young Mr. Viets said he did everything in his power to avoid the accident. He checked the speed of his car and made several attempts to turn out and avoid hitting Smith, but to his mind Smith appeared to be so excited that he ran right in front of the automobile which was kept zigzagging to avoid hurting him.

Smith was a laborer and his wife and two young children survive him.

RIVERSIDE FIRE.

But for the prompt action of Charles Sadler, steward of the B. A. A. clubhouse, and Arthur Murphy of Boston, the Riverside recreation grounds would probably have been reduced to ashes yesterday afternoon. The fire is believed to have been started from a spark from a passing locomotive and when discovered by Sadler and Murphy, who were in a canoe a short distance from the building, was burning at a good rate.

The men paddled to the fire with all speed and after giving the alarm, got a line of hose on the blaze and after the employees of the house put another hose on the blaze the fire was quickly extinguished before the arrival of the Newton, Wellesley and Weston departments, which had been summoned to the scene. The apparatus was late in arriving on account of the long runs.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The Newton Y. M. C. A. baseball team will play the Naval Y. M. C. A. team Saturday on the north diamond, Cabot Park at 3.15. The Newton team has been going along at a very fast clip of late and a fast game is looked for.

NARROW ESCAPE

On Tuesday afternoon, while Phillip Marchetta was working for the Forestry department on Waverley avenue, Newton, he touched a live wire, through which 2500 volts of electricity was passing. His cry for help was heard by the foreman, William Fessenden, who quickly came to his assistance and cut the wire on one side of his hand. Marchetta was unable, however, to release his hold on the wire and Fessenden had to cut the wire on the other side, leaving a piece of wire in the hand. Marchetta managed to hold on to the tree until Fessenden could climb the tree and help him to the ground, and was later able to resume his work.

BLAKEMORE AND BANCROFT'S INHERITANCE TAX LAW.

The Boston Book Company is pleased to announce the early publication of a new work on this important subject by Arthur W. Blakemore of the Boston Bar and author of "Blakemore on the Abolition of Grade Crossings in Massachusetts"; "Gould and Blakemore on Bankruptcy"; "Massachusetts Court Rules, Annotated"; the article on "Wills" in the Encyclopedia of Law and Procedure; and other articles in that Encyclopedia; and Hugh Bancroft, formerly District Attorney of Middlesex County and author of "Inheritance Taxes for Investors."

This is the only text-book on the subject published since 1895. It contains every American case, the full text of all existing statutes and of all prior statutes which have been construed by the courts, with a full history of the legislation in every state. It is the only publication containing the full text of the legislation of 1911, which has changed the law in a dozen states.

It consists of two parts—the first part treating the subject in the usual textbook form, with full citations of all authorities, and the second part consisting of the statutes of all the states, annotated. In this way the reader by turning to Part I can find readily all the law on any disputed point and by turning to Part II he can find all the law of the state in which he happens to be interested.

The avoidance of inheritance taxes forms one entire chapter of the work and contains a full discussion of the various attempts which have been made and can be made by investors to avoid paying this tax with a full discussion of all the cases on the subject. The authors believe that this one chapter, containing as it does material which was never collated before should prove of the greatest value to careful investors.

The marshalling of assets in the payments of debts and legacies is fully treated in an entire chapter. This chapter alone should be of the greatest assistance to executors and trustees who desire to protect the estates in their charge as it is full of suggestions as to the property which should be used to pay debts and the property which should be used to pay legacies and devises of various kinds in order to make the taxes as small as possible.

NONANTUM SQUARE.

Nonantum Square is now receiving a long needed treatment, both for surface and dust laying. Street Commissioner Ross has been delayed in this work by the Edison Company, which has been laying a conduit, but began work on Monday. He will resurface the entire square and adjoining streets with two to three inches of crushed stone, on which he will spread a preparation of tar, called Tarvia X, laid hot. On top of this he proposes to spread hot asphalt for dust laying purposes. There will be no crosswalks whatever as the entire surface will be as good as a sidewalk.

NORUMBEGA PARK

Norumbega Park—As summer advances Norumbega Park becomes more beautiful daily. The natural beauty of the park, enhanced by landscape gardening effects, is a delight to the eye while the scenery from the Charles River is not to be surpassed in New England and many take advantage of the excellent canoe and boat service that is offered by the three boathouses that are maintained by the management of the park. The bill for the coming week in the magnificent open air theatre, beginning Monday afternoon, August 14 for one week with performances every afternoon and evening will be another musical comedy "The Girl and the Pirate" from the pen of Mathew Ott. In speaking of the productions of Mathew Ott, the originator of the petite, musical show, printed effusions of dainty girls, scintillating music and kaleidoscopic effects would not be out of place. "The Girl and the Pirate" is a lively, colorful, mirth-inciting and melodious comedy. To begin with it is engaging and unconventional in theme and action. The plot and action of the piece take place on board of a steam yacht. Bob Ott, the chief comedian, appearing as a stowaway, has a rare opportunity to display his abilities as an eccentric character comedian, and as usual, intersperses his "business" with a large amount of pithy and original comments and jokes that convulse the audience. The company includes the Three Singing Jacks, the greatest singing trio in vaudeville; Miss Ogden, late soloist with Sousa's Band; Mrs. MacCollin, the talented character woman from "The Country Girl"; Allen and Tenny, in the acrobatic dancing novelty; and Bob Ott and Carrie Engle, well known musical experts. There will be, of course, a chorus of pretty girls in picturesque costume changes and novelty ensemble dancing. There will be another grand Sunday night concert next Sunday evening.

MEGANSETT CONCERT.

A very interesting and entertaining concert was given Saturday night August 5th in the casino at Megansett in which Newton talent was well represented. "A Picked-up Dinner" was the title of the comedy enacted, the cast including Miss Ruth Stutson of West Newton, Mr. Gilkey and Mrs. W. D. Cook, Miss Mildred Macomber of Newtonville danced a Spanish and Italian Tanetella and Miss Frances Payne played a piano accompaniment. Between the dances Messrs Arthur and Harold Lyon favored the audience with a duet from "La Forza del Destino."

NEW OFFICE.

John T. Burns has taken an extensive lease of the store 807 Washington St., Newtonville, where he will have one of the finest and best equipped real estate offices in the Newtons. The offices are centrally located being opposite the Newtonville station and on the direct car line. He will open for business at his new office on Wednesday, August 16th when an invitation is cordially extended to all to visit him there.

TAX RATE DROPS A DOLLAR

ASSESSORS PLACE 1911 FIGURES AT $17.60

The Newton Assessors announced yesterday that the tax rate for the present year would be $17.60 per thousand, a reduction of one dollar from the $18.60 rate of last year. The figures show a most gratifying condition of affairs, with reductions in the various tax warrants, an increase in treasury receipts over the previous year and a substantial increase in the total valuations. The real estate valuations increase from $52,203,600 to $53,322,000 a gain of $1,118,400. The personal valuations increase from $21,383,910 to $21,942,355 a gain of $558,445. The total valuations increase from $73,587,510 to $75,264,355, a net gain of $1,676,845. The real estate valuations are divided between land and buildings as follows: Buildings increase from $29,562,200 to $30,599,950, or a gain of $1,037,750, and the land values increase from $22,641,400 to $22,722,050 or $80,650. The number of polls show a slight increase from 10,617 in 1910 to 10,747 in 1911.

The figures on which the tax levy is based are as follows:

City appropriations	$1,249,570.98
State tax	106,810.00
Metropolitan parks	34,910.80
Metropolitan sewers	63,876.87
Charles River Basin	19,315.37
Boylston st. bridge	1,242.00
State highways	36.25
Metropolitan water	6,476.92
County tax	68,195.09
Grade crossings	10,418.74
Of this total, $13,000 of the Charles

POLICE NOTES.

As the result of a raid made in the store of David Rosenthal of 10 Mechanic street, Newton Upper Falls, last Saturday night by Sergt Mullen and officer Dugan, Rosenthal was summoned into court Monday morning to answer a charge of maintaining a gambling nuisance, and Michal Tomasz of 113 Oak street, Frank Hodeki of 38 Wetherell street and Michal Balezunas of 45 Mechanic street were in court on the charge of being present where gambling was being conducted. All four men entered a plea of not guilty, but Associate Justice Frank M. Copeland found all guilty and imposed a fine of $50 and three months in the house of correction on Rosenthal, and Tomasz, Hodeki and Balezunas were each fined $10, which they paid. Rosenthal appealed his fine and sentence and he was bound over in the sum of $300 for the September term of the superior court.

We can understand the ease with which a fool and his money are parted, but what puzzles us is how the fool got the money to start with. Of all the hard things to bear and grin, The hardest is to know you have been taken in.

Civilization rewards Genius, Capacity, Force and Integrity; but when the final awards are made, all the blue ribbons go to the men who felt like quitting—but didn't.

River Basin assessment will be bonded, and the Metropolitan water tax comes out of our water income. There are also the following credits, treasury balances of $65,187.49 and estimated receipts of $132,500. These figures, with the usual overlay yield a net tax levy of $1,324,652.65 as against $1,368,727.68 for 1910.

An interesting item in this connection is the fact that the corporation tax received by this city in 1910 is $70,000 less than that received in 1907. The change in the corporation tax law was a most expensive matter for the city of Newton.

The detailed valuations are as follows:

	Personal	Real Estate
Ward One	$2,521,400	$4,535,300
Ward Two	2,795,800	7,750,750
Ward Three	3,404,655	8,128,400
Ward Four	1,101,350	4,968,400
Ward Five	1,746,850	8,061,100
Ward Six	5,456,350	12,360,450
Ward Seven	4,915,950	7,517,600

BURDETT COLLEGE

An Investment That Earns an Accumulative Dividend.

The close relations maintained with the business world enables Burdett College to guarantee to all graduates that they will be placed in satisfactory positions. The increasing demand for Burdett trained secretaries, book-keepers and stenographers obliges it to leave 1479 positions of the 2766 offered during the year ending Jan. 1, 1911, unfilled. This is convincing proof that the profession is not overcrowded and emphasizes the value placed by business men on Burdett training.

One of the great inducements that bring hundreds of students from all parts of the country to Burdett College each year for a business training is that, with a moderate investment of time and money, they secure the means of increasing their earning capacity year by year.

In order to meet the great interest manifested by the public in the work of the college, exhibition exercises are held each Saturday from 10:30 to 12 o'clock, when expert demonstrations in typewriting, shorthand and on office appliances are given by the students. Blackboard and pen exhibitions by famous penmen are also given.

The beautiful exhibition room just opened affords all visitors an opportunity to inspect the work of the students. The college is leaving no stone unturned to acquaint the public with the high standard of efficiency maintained in all departments.

Visitors are cordially invited to visit Burdett College any school day or school evening of the week and especially Saturday mornings. The offices are open during August for the accommodation of callers and the enrollment of students who are to begin at Burdett when the fall session opens, Tuesday, Sept. 5.

EXTRACTS FROM CITY REPORTS

INTERESTING PICTURES AND SYNOPSIS SHOWING WORK OF CITY DEPARTMENTS FOR THE PAST YEAR

GROUP OF MAPLES, CORNER OF WALTHAM AND CRAFTS STREETS.

The Forest Commissioner reports gratifying success in the work of suppressing the gypsy and brown tail moth at a cost of $51,249.01. Two new high power sprayers were purchased enabling the department to reach the tops of the trees without climbing. In addition the colonies of parasites in the city have done excellent work in killing the caterpillars. The greatest problem in this work is the handling of woodland lots, and the Forest Commissioner believes it to be of the utmost importance that all neglected lots be freed from underbrush and rubbish, which furnishes excellent breeding places for gypsy moths.

The elm tree beetle is one of the most troublesome pests but great gains have been made in handling it by spraying. 217 new trees have been planted along the highways, and Mr. Bucknam recommends the planting of white ash various parts of the city with 61.67 acres and an estimated valuation of $162,100.

HOW TO PLANT A TREE.

Secure the tree first and cover the roots well to protect them against the wind and sun while the hole is being dug and prepared. Dig the hole wider and deeper than the tree requires. Remove all the sand and stones and use good top soil instead. Put in some well rotted manure if you have it handy. The hole being ready, cut off all broken and injured roots with a sharp knife. Be sure and make a clean cut. Trim back the top of tree to counterbalance the loss of roots. Place the tree in the hole no deeper than the tree was before it was removed, and see that the earth is pressed firmly around the roots to hold the tree in place. Water thoroughly. See that the best soil is near the roots

Because after they were dug from the ground, they were too much exposed to the sun and dry air.

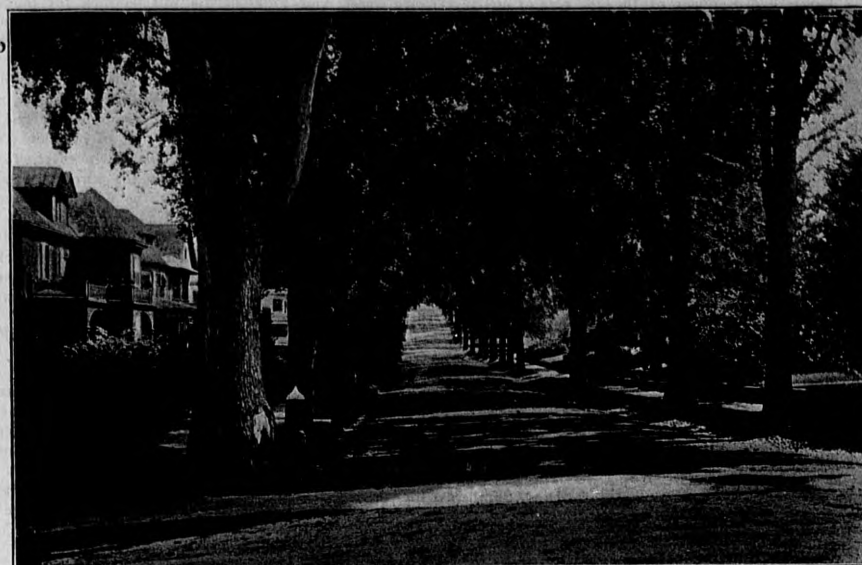

Because the soil was not packed tightly around the roots when they were planted; thus planted, they rock to and fro.

Because the soil was too wet where they were planted. Sometimes the soil is made very wet and is of such a kind that when it dries it bakes and keeps out the air.

Because the soil in which the tree was planted dried out too quickly.

The annual report of the Chief of Police for 1910 states that 1170 persons were arrested for various offenses, 73 being women. Drunkenness was the cause in 512 cases, assault and battery in 100 and keeping a disorderly house in 85.

1224 cases were investigated by the hose and chemical, and located at Newtonville. This is probably the beginning of an attempt to place the entire department on an automobile basis. The apparatus ran 240 miles between August 1 and December 31, and cost $13.85 for maintenance. The chief strongly urges the purchase of another motor combination to be located at Chestnut Hill.

In responding to these alarms the department covered 3265 miles and was in active service 1109 hours.

The most expensive fire was that in the Baxter residence last November on which $6800 insurance was paid.

Thirty three horses are in use in the department, four less than in 1909.

The department cost $67,214.46 to maintain, and is composed of 2 officers, 33 permanent and 53 call men. The chief recommends the appointment of 4 additional permanent men.

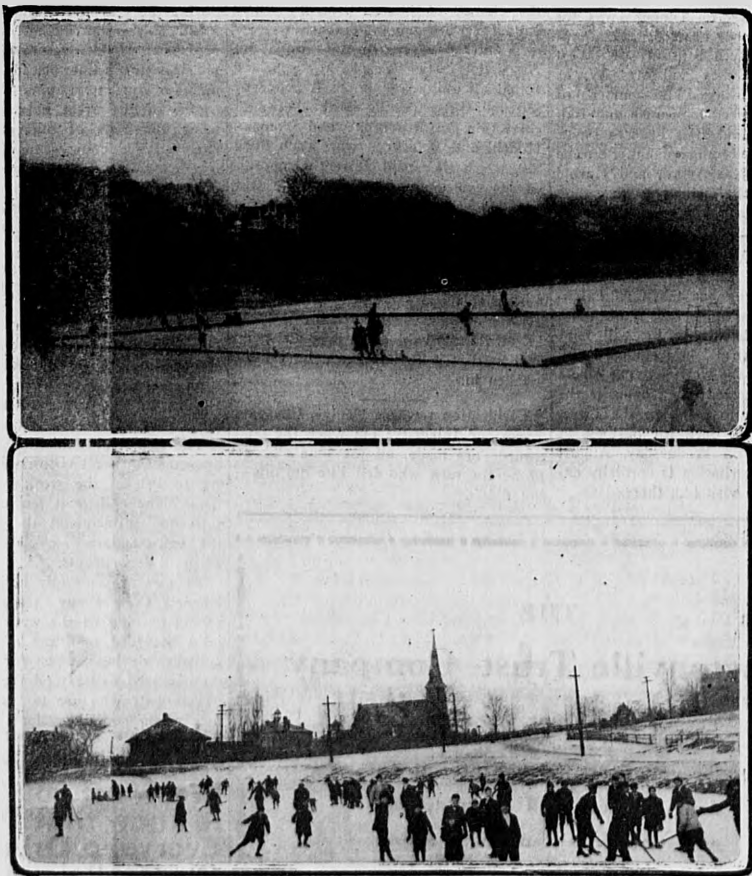

ter competitive bids, to Simpson Bros., Co., who have done this work for so many years. 15,720 square yards were laid during the year; 9782 sq yards being for new sidewalks; and the total cost was $16,587.35.

Mr. Ross gives an interesting account of the work done for dust laying purposes. Macadamized streets with varying grades, use for heavy horse drawn and automobile traffic were treated with liquid asphalt at a cost of 3 cents per sq. yard. Other roadways were treated with 90 per cent Standard oil and Tarite asphalt and cost from 21 to 23 cents per square yard.

In addition to these tarciated roads, there are asphalt preparations of three grades used. Grade A is an asphalt liquid fluid used on a finished roadbed, binding the material, making it waterproof, and giving a resilient and elastic surface, which automobile traffic

The total cost of the sewer system to Dec. 31 was $1,981,388.49.

The trustees of the Newton Free Library report a circulation of 271,269 books in 1910, an increase of but 1000 over 1909, whereas the average increase in circulation for the preceding 3 years was over 34,000. The difference is attributed to the cloud of depression which settling over the business of the country, has affected the circulation of free libraries quite generally. Analysis of the above figures also shows that even the slight increase of 1000 was due to the work of the branches and in the schools and that the main library shows a substantial loss. The per capita circulation of the district served by the main library was 13.8, that served by the branches was 4.8 and the per capita of the entire state was 3.8. The trustees believe that the circulation in the

and magnolia trees in preference to poplars and silver maples. Mr. Bucknam also recommends a list of trees suitable for wide streets and another for narrow streets. Another interesting table shows the average growth of different trees in 20 years, from a 3 inch sapling. The report also gives instructions on how to plant a tree, and reasons why trees should be planted along the streets.

The Forest Commissioner has charge of the parks and playgrounds and reports a gratifying increase in the public interest in playgrounds. West Newton Common was added the past year, being a gift of citizens of property assessed at $16000.

Upper Falls also contributed a new playground of property assessed at $5000 and consisting of nearly 7 acres. Newton now has ten playgrounds in and that the roots are spread naturally. Fill the hole with dirt and pound the dirt in solid to hold the tree from swaying. Use a stake if possible, as the wind is liable to blow the tree, thereby loosening the roots.

Water the tree frequently as it first starts, and keep the surface soil free from cakes and cracks. The tree will grow without much attention after the first year, and will give you in return for your trouble, oxygen to breathe and moisture. It will run itself, manufacture its own materials and give away its products to bless and brighten the world.

The department is composed of 73 officers and men and cost $82,363.75 to maintain.

The chief of the Fire Department reports 459 fire calls in 1910 an increase of 48 over the preceding year. These fires were in buildings, valued, with contents at $946,155, carrying insurance of $585,590; causing an estimated damage of $39,911.06, and on which $42,184.51 insurance was paid. The estimated damage and insurance paid were less than the average of the past 10 years.

The chief feature of the year in this department was the placing in commission of the new motor combination

BASEBALL GAME ON WEST NEWTON COMMON.
GIRLS' FIELD HOCKEY AT CABOT PARK.

The street department expended $323,329.97 in 1910, of which the largest items were $67,740.92 for maintaining streets, $53,089.09 for street lighting and $42,950.98 for building sewers. There are 72 horses in the department and with the wagons, harnesses, etc., are valued at $30,411.

There are 142 miles of streets in the care of the Street Commissioner and Mr. Ross reports that necessary resurfacing and new work was limited by lack of funds. About $50,000 of the $67,740.92 expended for street maintenance was for repairs, and about $17,000 for new work and tar and oil treatment.

The collection of ashes and papers is in charge of this department and is taken weekly thruout the city, and papers being collected twice a month. The cost of this work was $17,999.37.

The concrete work was awarded, af-tends to improve. Grade B is heavier and is used in resurfacing old roads. It makes a solid road, 3 to 5 inches below the surface, and will remain dustless for several years. Grade C is a semi-solid product used in resurfacing, and makes a hard, smooth, dustless roadway, solidly cemented.

Electric street lights are furnished by the Edison Co. under a ten year contract, and there are 107 arc and 1635 incandescent lights in use costing $37,161.72. Gas and oil lights are furnished by the Newton & Watertown Gas Light Co., and there are 1033 gas and but 18 oil lights in the city costing $15,862.48.

2.63 miles were added to the sewer system in 1910 making 110.5 miles of sewers in use, probably a larger per capita length of sewer than any other city in the country. 212 new house connections were laid in the year at an average cost of 57 cents per running foot.

districts covered by the branches ought to be increased, but that no great improvement can be made until adequate library buildings are erected in each ward. The library now has 78450 books and the building has become so congested as to interfere with the efficiency of the work. One new branch library has been established at Thompsonville, making eight in all.

The librarian reports an increase in attendance at the reading room on Sunday afternoons of about 50 per cent, there being 9460 in 1910.

The duplicate pay books also continue popular, with a circulation of 18,274, and 760 books were transferred from the duplicate pay to the regular library. $4,487.61 were expended for books for regular accounts and $873.14 from trust funds. The total cost of the library was $18,529.61.

THE E. Z. MARK IN BOSTON.

One can very easily understand the desire to "string" a greenhorn, and to one who is willing to be the greenhorn many sage bits of wisdom can be stored away for future reference, to say nothing of the fun of listening to them. But, one's face must be so under control for the practical "come-on" joker is a wary bird and is easily frightened from his prey. Happening one day, while in Boston to think of Mark Twain's famous "Is he dead" I determined to find out whether the kind of fish known as "suckers" were as plentiful in Boston as he found them in foreign countries. I enjoyed the experience hugely, in fact I think that I obtained a vast deal more fun from the experience than the informers would get if they only knew what I was driving at.

For my first trip I ventured down to Atlantic Avenue. It is a rich field. All the seeker after truth has to do is to look as much like an inspired idiot as possible and ask questions. My first attempt was to purchase a sword fish sword in a store which displayed the following startling sign: "Slaughter Sail!" "Sword-fish swords? No. I am very sorry but I have just shipped my last lot of 22 tons to Africa."

"What do they do with them in Africa?" queried the E. Z.

"Make isinglass of them."

"I have never seen a sword more than two feet long, and then only as curiosities," said E. Z. "Do they come any larger?"

"My dear sir, it is easy to see that you are a stranger to a sea port city. Why a two-foot sword is only a baby fish. He is not fairly weaned yet. Why last week Skipper Long of the 'Sally' broke a mast on one of his dories and having just caught a fair sized fish, it weighed nearly 3000 pounds, he used the sword for a mast. And talk about the strength of a fish, do you see that battleship over there in the dry dock? Well they had to put in to the Navy Yard to have their armor repaired for off Block Island a sword fish rammed the boat and drove his sword through 27 inches of Harveyized steel plate. I tell you they are dangerous. By the

A HYMN TO OUR COUNTRY.

By Rev. Harry Lutz.

We bless our Country's name
In lustrous light of fame;
And all rejoice
Thy worthy praise to sing:
From founts of love upspring
The tributes we would bring
With heart and voice.

Our Country, unto thee
Let our true service be Worthy thy name;
With hero memories shine,
A noble birthright thine;
Oh, may our wills incline
To guard thy fame.

Spirit of truth and right,
Be thou alone our might;
Oh, ne'er grow less
The faith that braved the sea,
The truth that makes us free;
With peace and purity
Our nation bless!

THEATRES.

B. F. Keith's Theatre—Charles Richman, one of the cleverest comedians on the legitimate stage, and certainly one of the most popular, will head the bill at B. F. Keith's Theatre next week. This piece abounds in excruciatingly funny situations, and in Miss Antoniette Walker, late of David Belasco's production of "The Lily," Mr. Richman has one of the cleverest leading ladies now on the boards. Another strong feature will be Gus Edwards'

companied with the name of the

tions cannot be returned by mail unless

Notices of all local entertain-

The suggestion contained in the annual report of the trustees of the Newton Free Library that efforts should be made to erect suitable library buildings
in each village of the city is one which
the various local village improvements should seriously consider. The scattered nature of our city leads to the conclusion that it is not feasible, nor even desirable to erect one central library for the entire city. Separate library buildings for each village would be not only an ornament, but would be a decided benefit to the intellectual life of each community. The figures quoted by the library trustees, showing the large difference between the use made of the library in Newton where the principal building is now located and the use
made in the several branches is a striking illustration of the needs for attractive library buildings in every ward of the city.

It is seldom that a governor of Massachusetts lowers the dignity of his high office as to publicly state that the money
of the state is both stolen and extravagantly wasted. Lieutenant Governor Frothingham has done the state a service by demanding that Governor Foss either prove his remarkable statement or retract it. It's a safe guess that His Excellency will attempt to bluff his way out of the hole in which Mr. Frothingham has put him. I hope that the men who voted for Mr. Foss is preference to Governor Draper enjoy the situation.

The tax rate of $17.60 announced by the Assessors yesterday will be gratifying news to all the residents of this city. I predicted last week that some reduction was probable but a drop of one dollar was totally unexpected. The result is due, as stated last week to a reduction in the city appropriations, an increase in treasury balances, and last,
but by no means least, to the addition of over $1,000,000 to the taxable valuation of the city.

A CURIOUS DREAM.

Warning That Came to a Granddaughter of Sir Walter Scott.

An instance in which a dream was useful in preventing an impending catastrophe is recorded of a daughter of Mrs. Rutherford at Edinboro, the granddaughter of Sir Walter Scott. This lady dreamed more than once that her mother had been murdered by a black servant. She was so much upset by this that she returned home, and, to her great astonishment and not a little to her dismay, she met on entering the house the very black servant she had met in her dream. He had been engaged in her absence. She prevailed upon a gentleman to watch in an adjoining room during the following night.

About 3 o'clock in the morning the gentleman heard footsteps on the stairs, came out and met the servant carrying some coals. Being questioned as to where he was going, he answered confusedly that he was going to mend the mistress' fire, which at 3 o'clock in the morning in the middle of summer was evidently impossible. On further investigation a strong knife was found hidden in the coals. The lady escaped, but the man was subsequently hanged for murder, and before his execution he confessed that he intended to assassinate Mrs. Rutherford.—London Standard.

GRAND CANYON.

An Ideal Place in Which to Realize the Insignificance of Man.

There is one place in this country where a man can step back not by hundreds but by thousands of years, back to the time when the continent was in the making. This place is the Grand Canyon of Arizona. There the visitor sees a panorama in a million colors as the misty gather about the rugged peaks and the sunlight glistens on the metallic deposits of the cliffs. A whole chaotic world discloses itself. Rock forms of uncanny beauty stand out on those unrivaled cliffs, and far down runs the river channel.

Stand on some ledge and realize the insignificance of man when compared with the handicraft of nature, watch a party of travelers threading their way down some winding trail that clings to the great wall and see them grow smaller and smaller until they become mere specks in the great rift, then some idea is gained of this wonderful place. Yet the canyon is so symmetrical and so unlike anything else that it is with difficulty that one can acquire any notion of its immensity. Niagara poured in would hardly have the dignity of a mountain stream.—New York Sun.

Mumors of "Hamlet."

William Davidge related in his "Footlight Flashes" that during his strolling days in England, when companies were small, he had on the same evening done duty for Polonius, the ghost; Othello and the first gravedigger, and Edwin Booth remembered Thomas Ward dying in sight of the audience as the player king and being dragged from the mimic stage by the heels to enter immediately at another wing as Polonius, crying "Lights, lights, lights!" Hamlet in a one night town, sweating he loved Ophelia better than forty thousand brothers, has watched her through an open grave packing her trunk in the place beneath, while the ghost, her husband, waited to strap it up. There are more things in Hamlet's existence behind the scenes than are dreamed of in the philosophy of all his commentators and all his critics.—From the Green Book.

Corn and Water.

To those engaged in the handling of grain the natural shrinkage of shelled corn while in storage and in transit is a matter of prime importance and often a source of dispute because of shortage reported at time of receipt at warehouse and a further loss at date of final sale. In order to determine the amount of shrinkage or loss of weight occurring in corn the department of agriculture has conducted an experiment with 500 bushels of shelled corn. At the time of storage the moisture content was 18.8 per cent and at close of the test 14.7 per cent, or a loss of 4.1 per cent. The weight per bushel had decreased from 51.7 pounds to 50 pounds, and the total loss of weight was 1,970 pounds, or slightly more than 7 per cent.

Sir Roger de Coverley.

Sir Roger de Coverley was the name of a member of the imaginary club of twelve under whose direction Addison's Spectator was professionally published. He was an old school, bluff, good hearted English gentleman. The dance named after him is an English dance corresponding somewhat to the Virginia reel.

Her One Idea.

"His wife is a woman of one idea."
"That so?"
"Yes; whenever he starts to do anything she has the idea that he's doing it wrong."—Detroit Free Press.

A Good Reason.

Positive Wife—John, why do you talk in your sleep? Have you any idea? Negative Husband—So as not to forget how I suppose. It's the only chance I get.—Exchange.

Good Reason.

"You mean to say you lived in one house for three years and cultivated no pleasant acquaintances? Why?"
"I was cultivating my voice."—Exchange.

JUMPED FROM TRAIN

Walter Oliver of 309 Washington street, Braintree, while passing through this city last Friday on a train from Boston for Worcester where he was being taken by two attendants to a private sanitarium, jumped from the train and was dashed to death against a stone abutment.

The train which left Boston at 4 was bound for New York and Worcester was its first stop. Evidently no passenger saw the man jump from the train and it is surmised his attendants had left Oliver unguarded for a long time, for they did not miss him for a considerable time, but when they did they caused the train to be stopped at Natick.

The first information received here of the case was that a man had jumped from the New York train at a point between Auburndale and West Newton. The police were advised that he was being taken by two attendants to the Worcester insane asylum.

Several men were rushed to the tracks and they searched diligently for the man. The body was discovered by a pedestrian, near the Richardson-st bridge. He saw a panama hat lying on the tracks and then saw the body lying face upward in a ditch at the side of the track. The citizen notified John Flood, who notified the police.

Late Friday Dr. Wilson F. Phillips, who has offices at 138 Norfolk street, Dorchester, and who lives at 3 Whitman street, said the dead man was Walter Oliver of 309 Washington street, Braintree. Dr. Phillips also explained that Mr. Oliver had been a very sick man for some time and that he had been in Dorchester, from which place he was taken by two attendants who were charged with delivering him safely at a private sanitarium in Worcester.

MRS. SMART KILLED

Mrs. Georgianna Smart, the wife of Mr. John O. Smart of West Newton was the victim of an automobile and street car accident last Sunday noon, at the corner of Huntington avenue and West Newton street Boston, causing her death, two minutes after the collision.

Mr. and Mrs. Smart were on their way to visit Mrs. Smart's sister Mrs. C. P. Sibley of Columbus avenue, and Mr. Smart was driving a four seated touring car. Mr. Smart slowed down at first when he saw the electric car approach, but his wife told him he had time to cross, and started to pass in front, evidently expecting the street car to slow down. As it did not do so, Mr. Smart put on more speed, but seeing that a collision was unavoidable, turned his machine down the tracks, and was struck by the street car on the side near his rear wheel. Mr. Smart was thrown clear of the car into the street and escaped with slight bruises. Mrs. Smart was thrown out on the left side, and was caught under the overturned automobile, and dragged along the pavement for about 15 feet, before the electric car could be stopped. Her skull was crushed and she expired within two minutes of the accident. A physician who lived opposite saw the accident and rushed to her assistance but nothing could be done for her. The body was taken to the city hospital morgue in the police ambulance.

The motorman of the car, James A. Fahey of 183 Union street, Brighton, was taken to station 16 by Sergt. Kneeland, and after he had told his story of the accident, responsibility for which he disclaimed, he was released.

Mrs. Smart was 55 years of age and resided with her husband on Prospect street, West Newton. Mr. Smart is the proprietor of the livery stable in that village.

Simple services were held Wednesday afternoon at her late home, 70 Prospect street, West Newton. The services were conducted by Rev. William H. Dyas, pastor of the Beth Eden Baptist church of Waltham and interment took place in Cambridge.

DENIO—SHANNON

The wedding of Miss Lucy Elliott Shannon, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Shannon of Newton Centre and Mr. Fayette Winchester Denio, of Boston, took place last Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride on Lake avenue.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Maurice A. Levy, pastor of the First Baptist church of Newton Centre in the presence of a large number of friends, the bridal couple standing under an arch of green and white.

The bride who wore a gown of white satin trimmed with old lace and carried a shower bouquet of white sweet peas, was attended by Mrs. Malcolm Watts of Plainfield, N. J., as matron of honor, by Miss Fannie Davis of Springfield, Mass., Miss Mabel Kingsbury of Hartford, Conn., Miss Ethel Breed of Newton Centre and Miss Clara Russell of Great Barrington, as bridesmaids. Miss Katherine Greeley and Miss Isabella Grandice of Boston, cousins of the bride were the flower girls. The bridal party wore gowns of lingerie, with picture hats and carried pink sweet peas. The best man was Mr. Sidney Stone of Boston and the ushers were Mr. Hector Holmes and Mr. Carrington Howard of Boston.

A reception followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Denio being assisted in receiving their friends by Mr. and Mrs. Shannon and Mr. and Mrs. F. Denio of Springfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Denio will be at home at "Windy Crags" Newton Centre during September and October.

A school-boy at a prize examination furnished the following biography of the patriarch Abraham: "He was the father of Lot and had two wives. One was called Ishmael and the other Hagar. He kept one at home; and he turned the other into the desert, where she became a pillar of salt in the daytime and a pillar of fire by night."

CHARLES RIVER

At the suggestion of the Auburndale Village Improvement Society a meeting was held on Wednesday of representatives of interested bodies in the condition of the Charles river. Late in the afternoon launches were taken at the boathouse and a trip made on the river between Concord street bridge and Pulsifer's cove. Returning to Norumbega park a special car was taken to the Brae Burn Club house where a dinner was given. Mayor Hatfield presided and among others present were Aldermen Miller, Early and Cox, Representative Ellis, President E. B. Squire of the Improvement Society, former representative H. P. Converse, Secretary Rogers of the Metropolitan Park Commission, Street Commissioner Ross, City Engineer Rogers, Dr. F. G. Curtis of the board of health, F. B. Young and E. G. Frost, representing the boat livery, Selectman Gilson of Wellesley and Mr. H. S. Upham of Weston.

A general discussion followed as to the best means of improving the conditions of the river, including a method of preventing the water from being lowered by the manufacturing plants at Waltham. Mayor Hatfield was authorized to appoint a representative committee to act in the matter.

CARRIED 3,000,000 PERSONS.

During the year, which ended June 13, 1911, the Boston Elevated Railway Company had an income of $15,635,965, according to its annual report, which was filed with the Railroad Commission this week. It cost $10,119,064 to operate the system, so that the net revenue in the operating department was $5,516,901. Out of this net revenue it pays numerous charges, such as taxes and rents.

The company carried 305,498,665 passengers, as against 281,008,741 in 1909, the comparison being made with two years ago because of the change in the form of returns showing the 1910 traffic for nine months only.

It has cost the company more to operate, the ratio being 64.72 per cent of the revenue this year as against 64.10 per cent last year.

The total cost of the railway this year is $26,796,944 and it was $16,372,478 in 1910.

The motion pictures of the coronation now being exhibited twice daily at Tremont Temple, have a double interest. They are the first accurate representations of this great historic event ever given in Boston, and they have a distinct novelty in that they reproduce the actual scenes in all their movements and in their natural colors by the "Kinetoscope" process. The troops of the Colors, the Unveiling of Queen Victoria's Memorial, the Review of the Troops, the Royal Procession through London, as well as the Coronation Procession itself, are all shown, and the entertainment lasts two hours. It begins at 2.30 each afternoon and at 8.15 in the evening, a descriptive account is given by Eugene Farnsworth, and there is music on the famous Tremont Temple organ, and by a specially engaged orchestra.

FINE EDUCATION FOR BOYS

EDITORS VISIT FARM AND TRADES SCHOOL

Thompson's Island in Boston Harbor was the objective point of the members of the Massachusetts Press Association and their ladies last week when the regular meeting was held there. The association was the guests of the managers of the Farm & Trades School a private enterprise which is giving a splendid education all the time to 100 worthy boys.

The members gathered at a downtown hotel, where a special car was boarded and the party journeyed to City Point. The association appreciates the courtesy of the Boston Elevated Company for the attention shown while riding over its line. At City Point the steamer "Pilgrim" owned by the Farm and Trades school and the barge "John Alden" were awaiting the party. The barge was covered with a canopy the mast bearing the state flag, while the Farm School colors were at either end of the boat. Following a delightful sail across the harbor, the party was met at Thompson's Island by Superintendent Charles H. Bradley of the school, and after every one had been introduced they proceeded leisurely up the walk to the splendid lawn in front of the main building, where seats had been arranged under the shade of the maples.

For fifteen minutes or so, Mr. Bradley gave a history of the school from its foundation up to the present time, laying special stress on the fact that the school as supported entirely by philanthropic citizens. Occasionally bequests are made, one recently having been received upon the death of Miss Linscott of Dorchester, amounting to $25,000. If the philanthropists of this state should investigate the splendid work being done at Thompson's Island, we believe that many of them would make donations and also provide in their wills for legacies.

Following Mr. Bradley's talk, the party journeyed to the lawn on the west side of the main building, where a delightful lunch was served in the open air, after which the members and ladies listened to an excellent concert by the school band. This band is composed of boys in the school, the average age being about 15 years. One of the instructors, a native Hawaiian, also entertained the members with several native songs, playing the guitar for accompaniment.

Then the party began an inspection of the grounds and buildings, first visiting the new power plant and sloyd room. The Farm and Trades School was the first in this country to adopt sloyd work, importing a Swedish teacher for the purpose, all the benches being constructed by him with the aid of the pupils. The universal teaching of this work in the schools of this country today, shows the foresight of the management of the Farm and Trades School.

The members then visited the garden where each boy has a flower garden.

of his own. Prizes are awarded at the end of the year for the best displays.

and there is considerable good-natured rivalry. From the gardens the members visited "Cottage Row," which is the settlement owned by the boys on the edge of their playground. Then the party inspected the dormitory, laundry, dining room and other quarters and then wended their way to the barn, where 26 head of cattle, 9 horses and innumerable pigs are quartered. A little further on are the hen yards, and there are also ducks, geese, turkeys and a large flock of homing pigeons. Several hives of bees are located on the outer edge of the apple orchards, where the trees are filled with quantities of well formed fruit, red strachans having special attractions for the members. The visit to the farm lands, where a great quantity of the food consumed is produced, proved very instructive as did the Meteorological Observatory. By this time it was 5 o'clock, and the guests regretfully made their way to the wharf where the steamer and barge were boarded, and the homeward trip begun. Mr. and Mrs. Bradley and their son accompanied the gathering as far as City Point where the final good-byes were said.

Charles H. Bradley, who is in charge of the work at the school, has been there over 21 years and the splendid manner in which the entire property is kept up, as well as the fine training given the boys, is due very largely to him. To say that he is great reader of human nature, would be putting it mildly. He knows personally the traits, good and bad, of every boy in the school and it has never been said of him that he failed to give them all a square deal. The Alumni association shows its great affection for Mr. Bradley, whenever the opportunity is offered. The graduates look back to him more as a father and friend. Quarters at the school could easily be arranged to accommodate any more boys if the money was forthcoming to meet necessary expenses, but until some of our philanthropists come to the front with contributions, the school must necessarily be limited to 100 boys.

Mr. Bradley's address to the members was in part as follows:

It frequently happens that, although we have visited and are more or less familiar with places in Washington, New York, or even London, we have failed to visit Bunker Hill, the old State House, or other places near our own home. With this in mind, it may be said that too few people know of the interesting School on Thompson's Island in Boston Harbor known as The Farm and Trades School. The School, a private corporation under the laws of Massachusetts which is operated by a Board of Managers and a Superintendent as executive, first occupied the old colonial Governor Phipps' house, which stood at the corner of Salem and Charter Streets, Thompson's Island, where Miles Standish, the first white man to land in this vicinity, landed while on a trading trip among the Indians in 1621. was purchased in 1832 and the School has since been located here.

The location is admirably suitable for the School. Although near enough to Boston for necessary business communication, it permits a sort of independent community which affords valuable attributes. It is shut off from various undesirable influences and substitutes the wholesome surroundings of both country and seashore. Furthermore, the combination of country and seashore lends itself to many practical forms of mental and physical training.

EDUCATION FOR BOYS

The purpose of the School is to assist worthy boys of limited means to an education both practical and uplifting. No boys are received except such as the Managers consider desirable, and those received are preferably orphans between ten and fourteen years old.

Agriculture forms the basis of instruction, and with it are correlated the usual grammar school studies. Industrial training is given in farming, blacksmithing, machine work, printing, painting, and carpentering. The boys assist with all of the work on the Island. They learn to do what they are told to do quickly and cheerfully. It will be seen from the intelligent consideration of what follows that practicalness, good judgment, thrift, and neatness are the foundations of all their training.

Since the Island contains one hundred and fifty-seven acres, there is ample opportunity for various agricultural activities. On the farm the boys learn about the care of all farm live stock, raise the vegetables which they eat themselves, care for the fruit, and become acquainted with the principles of forestry by setting out, transplanting, and caring for trees.

About the water the boys are instructed in the handling and care of boats. They learn to row and swim. On the fifty-foot steamer a few have a chance to get practical experience in marine engineering, because the boat is equipped with all of the machinery, in miniature, necessary on an ocean liner.

During their playtime the boys have access to Cottage Row, a model city. The dozen or so small houses are built by the boys themselves, and are bought and sold in regular legal manner. There is a mayor, board of aldermen, judge, police force, street commissioner, assessor, and city clerk. With its departments modeled on practical usage, the little city furnishes lessons in citizenship, government, and business forms.

Both as a practical outlet for the English work and as a means of keeping its friends informed as to what is going on, the Thompson's Island Beacon is a valuable form of activity to the School. This little monthly paper published by the boys tells of the work in their own words.

About thirty of the boys form a brass band which was organized before the Civil War. This band furnishes both amusement for themselves and pleasure for their friends and relatives.

On a hill well separated from other buildings stands a meteorological observatory where the rudiments of meteorology are taught. The chief observer from the reports delivered to him by his subordinates after they have taken the readings of the various instruments, makes a daily weather forecast. This forecast is valuable in connection with both the farming and the boating.

Everything is made use of on the Island. In the autumn the leaves are gathered from the lawns where they look untidy and are used for bedding in the barns. The drift-wood which comes ashore is used in the bakery. The remainder of the usual waste which washes ashore, together with whatever may occur on the Island itself, is burned in an incinerator, and the resulting ashes are spread upon the land. This keeps the Island neat in appearance and furnishes fertilizer at a minimum cost.

Whenever additions are made, the boys do most of the work under the guidance of an instructor. In this manner, the meteorological observatory, the incinerator, and much of a new power-house were built. The boys also assist in keeping the different buildings and parts of the Island in repair. A few years ago they aided in making an addition to one wing of the main building, and recently they have dug and finished a new cellar under another wing.

With so many different activities and opportunities at hand, each boy may find at least one in which to become especially interested. On this Island the boundless resources of boy nature have been progressively developed under most favorable conditions. The practical and thorough training which the boys receive makes good citizens. The proof of the success of the School is shown in its graduates, many of whom have become prominent in the business, political, and social world. Since the School is dependent upon donations and bequests, and thus restricting the number to one hundred boys, it may easily be seen that more effective and widespread work might be accomplished if more should add their support to that of its many friends. As it has so recently been termed by the Boston Transcript, The Farm and Trades School is truly "our harbor man factory."

CITY HALL NOTES.

Harold W. Adams, paymaster of the city of Newton was presented with $20 in gold last Saturday morning. The gift was in the nature of a wedding present. Following his return from the honeymoon Mr. Adams was also presented with a large bouquet of flowers.

The thing that goes the farthest Towards making life worth while That costs the least and does the most Is just a pleasant smile.

Women and Banking.

The cashier of a bank which has many women depositors, in speaking of these customers, said that the stock stories about overdrawn accounts and ignorance as to bank methods had become pointless. Whatever may have been the case before, women give banks no more trouble now than men. "The woman who insists on drawing money when her balance has been exhausted because there are still blank checks in her book has disappeared and in her place we have a woman who wants interest on her money and who knows what 'call money' means," said the cashier. Referring to the "old kind," he added: "One day we did have a real case. A woman rushed in, said she had just figured up her account and found she was $500 short. Husband away, no other money—what could she do? She had brought jewels to leave as collateral security till he returned, and then we looked up the matter and found she had over $800 to her credit."—New York Tribune.

A Dance Without a Smile.

They have a singular kind of dance conducted on the greens of country villages in Russia. The dancers stand apart, a knot of young men here, a knot of maidens there, each sex by itself and silent as a crowd of mutes. A piper breaks into a tune. A youth pulls off his cap and challenges his girl with a wave and a bow. If the girl is willing she waves her handkerchief in token of assent. The youth advances, takes a corner of the handkerchief in his hand and leads his lassie round and round. No word is spoken, and no laugh is heard. Still with cords and rich with braids, the girl moves heavily by herself, going round and round and never allowing her partner to touch her hand. The pipe goes droning on for hours in the same sad key and measure, and the prize of merit in this "dancing" as the dance is called, is given by spectators to the lassie who in all that summer revelry has never spoken and never smiled.

Wanted More Converts.

Southey in his life of Wesley relates the following whimsical incident. He states that some of the opponents of these religionists in the excess of zeal against enthusiasm took up a whole wagon load of Methodists and carried them before a justice. When they were asked what these persons had done there was an awkward silence. At last one of the accusers said, "Why, they pretend to be better than other people, and, besides, they pray from morning till night."

The magistrate asked if they had done nothing else.

"Yes, sir," an old man said. "An't please your worship, they have converted my wife. Till she went among them she had such a tongue, and now she is as quiet as a lamb."

"Carry them back; carry them back," the magistrate said, "and let them convert all the scolds in the town!"

Icebergs and Echoes.

Icebergs are always a source of worry to the transatlantic steamship skippers. It isn't pleasant to run along through a fog or a murky night and smash into one of these floating mountains of ice. The liner captains have a way of finding ice that at first strikes the landsman as curious. When it is suspected there are bergs in the neighborhood the whistle is kept going. If there is an echo the navigator slows down and keeps a sharp eye out, for echoes don't grow in the open ocean.

Disraeli's Gorgeous Costume.

When Disraeli was a young man he once went on a vacation trip to Corfu in this extraordinary costume: "A blood red shirt with silver buttons as big as shillings, an immense scarf for girdle, full of pistols and daggers; red cap, red slippers, broad blue striped jacket and trousers. His servant, engaged for the occasion, wore a Mameluke dress of crimson and gold, with a white turban thirty yards long and a sash glittering like a rainbow."—London Spectator.

The Difficulty.

The First Worker—Manner born be blowed! D'you mean ter say if me an' you come into a bit o' splosh we couldn't keep our ends up with these 'ere dooks and people?

His Doubting Friend—Oh, we should be orl right, but our missuses 'd give the game away, yer know.—London Sketch.

The Landlubber.

"They were enlightening the landlubber as to maritime matters. He was becoming more and more crestfallen as their explanations progressed."

"Why, I always thought," he sadly sighed, "that the port side of a ship was the one nearest port!"—Boston Herald.

Maddening.

"They really fear she will become insane. You see, she found a diary he kept before he married her."

"Oh, I see! And the awful revelations?"

"Revelations? No. It was all in cipher, and she couldn't read a word of it."—London Tit-Bits.

An Affront.

"D'Auber—Your daughter paints in the Dutch school, does she not? Mrs. Newcomb—Not much she don't! We pay $50 a quarter to give her private lessons at home. Dutch school indeed!—Philadelphia Record.

Posting Mother.

"Did that young man kiss you last night?"

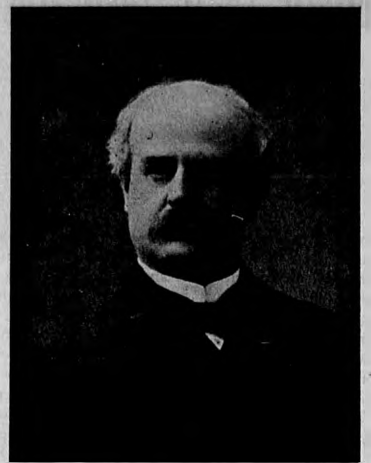

"Mother, do you suppose he came all the way up here just to bear me slug?"

INTERESTING ITEMS FROM CITY REPORTS

IMPORTANT FACTS AND SUGGESTIONS FROM CITY OFFICIALS

COL. ISAAC F. KINGSBURY.
Former City Clerk.

MR. WINFIELD S. SLOCUM.
City Solicitor of Newton.

The report of the City Clerk, last to be made by Col. Isaac F. Kingsbury, who held that office for over 27 years, contains the usual statistical information relative to the city. From it we find that there were 1562 dogs licensed, with receipts of $3,771.40. Fees for recording various instruments, and for the several classes of licenses amounted to $1,636. more. 176 hunters licenses were issued during the year under the new law and the fees of $190 were paid to the state under the law.

There were 826 children born during the year, 406 males and 420 females, with four cases of twins and one set of triplets.

400 marriages were performed among our residents, about one half being between foreign born population.

The deaths were 485, with 218 males and 267 females, and 105 being at the Hospital. The largest number, 51 took place in May, and the smallest number, 25 in July.

Mr. Ernest R. Lowe, the acting overseer of the poor, since the death in 1910 of Mr. Edwin M. Fowle, states that the cost of his department for the year was $27,421.23, with a net cost of $19,118.28, the difference being reimbursed to the city from other municipalities and the state. 1059 persons were aided, 76 in the Newton Hospital and 28 in the City Home, as the almshouse is now called. 253 families were assisted, representing 919 persons, 806 being within the city limits, and the rest being aided outside of the city. 3787 orders were issued for food, fuel and clothing, and Mr. Lowe recommends the establishment of a city store at the City Home, with deliveries to the various assisted persons by the department wagon.

The report of the city physician, Dr. Fred M. Lowe, is attached to the report of the Charity Department and states that 195 visits were made to outside poor, 148 visits at office, 38 visits made for the Health, and 26 visits made for the police department, and 94 vaccinations made.

City Engineer Edwin H. Rogers reports that his department in 1910 cost $15,383.51, of which the largest items were for highway work, $5,635.22 and sewer construction, $2,092.25.

Mr. Rogers again recommends the establishment of a board of survey, although that project received its quietus last fall.

The necessity of widening the Weston bridge is mentioned, and a suggestion made as to a footbridge from the upper portion of Margin street, at the West Newton station, to allow passengers from automobiles to enter the station more directly than at present.

MR. EDWIN H. ROGERS.
City Engineer of Newton.

There are at present 141,983 miles of accepted and 76,020 miles of unaccepted streets in the city, ward 5 having the greatest number of both, with ward one the smallest number of accepted and ward 7 the smallest number of unaccepted streets in the city.

Attention is called to the unsatisfactory condition of the water of Crystal lake, and to the discontinuance of the power station on Homer street and the subsequent improvement of the water in Bulloughs pond. The work on constructing the haulage at the Technical High school is explained, the cost being $6,841.40.

2.63 miles of sewers were built during 1910, making a total mileage of 110.32 now in use. 212 new house connections were made making a total of 5878 in the city.

The Telephone Company laid 275 feet of underground conduit in 1910 and now has 148,443 feet of such conduits in the city. The Edison Company laid 405 feet and now has 31,824 feet.

The report of Mr. Winfield S. Slocum, the city solicitor since 1881, and one of the oldest officials, in point of service in the city, gives a list of the measures in the General Court of 1910 affecting the city and also gives the award made during the year by the commission appointed to apportion the cost of metropolitan expenses for the current period of five years.

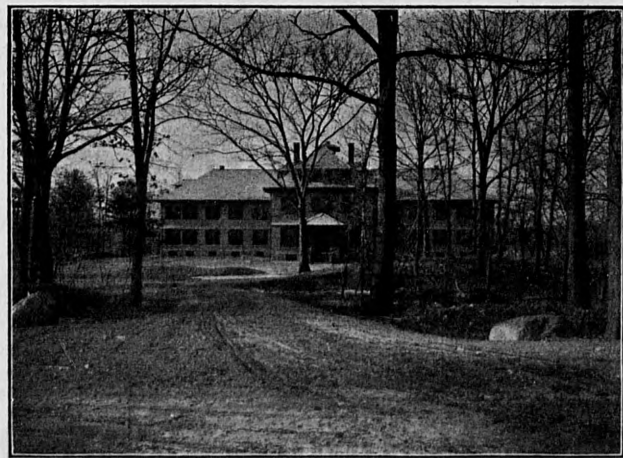

There is also an interesting statement relative to the creditors of the contractor for the new Technical High school, which was settled that year.

Mr. Slocum suggests that some measures be taken to prevent the assignment of ages by employees of the city.

There were 50 cases pending during the year in which the city was interested, 20 cases in which the city had an interest were settled, and 25 cases in which the city was summoned as a trustee.

MOTHERS REST.

The officers of the Mothers Rest Association report that the cottage at Needham Heights has been filled all summer and there is a large waiting list of mothers and 100 children have been accommodated for two weeks at a time at this most deserving charity.

NEWTON CITY HOME.

THEATRES.

B. F. Keith's Theatre—The announcement that Willard Simms in "The New Paper Hanger" will be one of the principal features at B. F. Keith's Theatre next week is sufficient evidence that those who visit this popular resort during the coming six days will enjoy many a good hearty laugh. For Simms is without question one of the funniest comedians that has ever been seen in vaudeville, and in the character of the amateur paper hanger who mixes his numbers and papers the wrong flat, he keeps his audiences in a constant paroxysm of laughter. Only those who have found by actual training in the hard school of experience, how really difficult it is to paper a room, can imagine the ludicrous mishaps that befall the unfortunate Simms during the twenty minutes he is on the stage. Other strong attractions engaged for the same week are Alexander and Scott, late of Cohan and Harris' Minstrels, in "From Virginia;" Keller Mack and Frank Orth, the song writer and the comedian in their musical absurdity, "The Wrong Hero;" Jewell's Manikins, a remarkable troupe of miniature performers; Cotter and Boulden, "The Whips in Rits" in original songs and dances; the Great Plotz-Larrella Troupe of daring gymnasts, and other strong features to be announced later.

Boston Theatre—That hilarious, laugh-producing, gloom-banishing musical farce-comedy, "The Girl in the Taxi," with "Bobby" Barry, and its all star cast of mirth-makers, is announced for an engagement of only two weeks at the Boston Theatre beginning Monday evening, August 21st. "The Girl in the Taxi" has been seen here before, and the reception accorded it then, in the form of capacity audiences, augurs well for its visit this season. The extraordinary popularity attained by this rollicking entertainment is due entirely to its refreshing atmosphere of spontaneous humor which sparkles from curtain to curtain. During the past two years "The Girl in the Taxi" was presented by two all-star casts, which helped to score record runs in New York and Chicago and then toured the principal cities of the country spreading the fame of the French-American farce from coast to coast. This season the play is "repeating" along the line of its former triumphs with a company composed of the pick of the two original star organizations, headed by that imitable comedian, "Bobby" Barry.

GLOUCESTER-BOSTON TRIP.
The trip by seaboat from Boston to Gloucester is one of uncommon charm and invigoration. Thousands of tourists are learning that they do not adequately know this historical vicinity thoroughly until they have taken the delightful trip up along the North Shore route. The boats leave weekdays at 10 A. M. sharp (Sundays and holidays 10.15) from the north side of Central wharf; and it is a delightful trip into Massachusetts Bay. There is music aboard, and the service is excellent. If

Early Combines and Corners.

"Engrossing" was an offense punishable in England by fine and imprisonment, and the laws against it struck at those called "engrossers" who planned to gain control over necessities, such as grain or foodstuffs in considerable quantities, either by purchase or otherwise, with the intention of raising prices. The statute book holds quite a series of enactments designed to prevent anything in the nature of what we know as a "corner" or "combine." "Regrating" was a criminal offense, and so was "forestalling." The former consisted of buying and selling the same day in the same market or near it, and the latter implied the purchase of merchandise on the way to market or before the hour at which the market commenced with the intention of selling at a profit, while it was also "forestalling" to circulate rumors calculated to raise the prices of commodities. Though these laws have fallen into desuetude, they were in force in our grandfathers' time.—London Mail.

He Let Her Sleep.

Some years ago a Swansea vessel was caught in a terrible gale. The captain had his wife on board, and when the wind was still rising he told her to go down below and sleep, for all was well. He remained on the bridge till the mate came up and said: "We've done all we can. Hadn't you better tell the chaps to get out the boats?"

"Yes, yes, my lad, if you think so," said the captain, who knew the only choice left was whether to go down with the ship or in a small boat, which couldn't live ten seconds in that sea. The engineers came up with the news that the fires were all out. "Very well, my lads," said the captain quietly, "save yourselves if you can."
"Won't you fetch the wife on deck, sir?" asked one of the men.
"No," was the calm reply; "let her sleep, poor old girl. I am going down to have a smoke." And, smoking by the bedside of his sleeping wife, he went down with the ship.

Modern Maps.

There are Egyptian maps dating from 1400 B. C., but in spite of this long history it has been astonishingly difficult to make progress in charts until very recent times. Errors are perpetuated; truth is forgotten; advance is slow. As late as 1900 charts of the Alaskan coast issued by the United States were said to be thirty miles wrong, and nearly all commercial map makers still represent mountain chains as caterpillars, and the fringe of the shore is adorned with a blue wavy trail. As for railroad maps, the less said the better, the great railroad map of the northern belt of the United States adorning the walls of the Broad street Pennsylvania station in Philadelphia being distorted east and west, north and south and otherwise, its accuracy in large part not being over 30 per cent, yet it is a more than usually good railroad map.—Engineering Magazine.

The Last Gladiators.

It was in A. D. 430 that the edict was passed which forever abolished the gladiatorial combats. In the deserts of Libya there lived a monk named Telemachus, who, touched by the cruel stories of the combats, went to Rome, leaped over the barrier of the arena of the Coliseum, threw himself between the groups of fighters and impaled them in the name of Christ to death. Telemachus fell, slain by the swords of the gladiators, but there never was another fight in the Coliseum. The spirit of the monk had its effect, and the above mentioned edict was soon passed.

Cruikshank's Fagin.

During the time Cruikshank was illustrating "Oliver Twist" he spent days traversing the east end of London in search of a face that would correspond with his conception of the character of Fagin. One day while standing before a mirror in his dining room "pulling faces at himself," so to speak, for the want of something better to do, he accidentally made the features for which he was looking. The picture, therefore, of Fagin is really that of Cruikshank himself.

At Last.

A well known clergyman, called to other duties, says a writer in the Western Christian Advocate, preached his last sermon before the installation of his successor. The local paper, in announcing the order of services, gave it as follows:
"Sermon by the Rev. Blank; solo and quartet, 'Hushed at Length.'"

Tremont Theatre—Accompanied by its record of a six months' run at the Gaiety Theatre in New York, and lacking none of the features which caused it to be hailed as the best farce Manhattan theatregoers had been offered in years, "Excuse Me" the Rupert Hughes play which rejoices in the peculiar sub-title of "A Pullman Carnival" comes to the Tremont Theatre Monday evening August 21st to formally, and at the same time laughingly, inaugurate there the season of 1911-1912. Mr. Hughes has taken two dozen people from the everyday walks of American life, placed them aboard a Pullman sleeper that is part of the equipment of an overland flyer bound for Chicago to the Pacific coast, and let things happen to them. And the things happen, while they are perfectly logical in their origin and their sequence are said to be sufficiently comic to keep one laughing for three hours. There are a score of contrasting types in the Pullman's passenger roster and every one of them interesting because of himself as well as because of his relation to his fellows. Geraldine O'Brien, George W. Day, Jacqueline Blancy, Joseph Yanner, Charles Abbe, Marguerite Skirvin, Wilfred Seagrim, Harry Carter, Alonzo Price, Arline Fredericks, Lillie Brownell and more than a score of others equally as well known are in the cast.

Grand Opera House—That intensely exciting military drama "Across the Pacific," and that popular little comedian, Harry Clay Blaney, as "Willie Live" will open the season at the Boston Grand Opera House, this Saturday evening, August 19, and continue all next week, with matinees on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. "Across the Pacific" is the first and only play of the war in the Philippines, and the sight of the khaki uniforms, the rough riders' band, the U. S. Transport "City of Pekin," loaded down with Uncle Sam's brave boys, and the great battle scene, showing a small body of our boys defending Block House No. 7 against the enemy, and this is where a real Gatling Gun is used, always call forth the hearty admiration of the audience. The original Grand Opera House scale of prices will prevail this season.

We have found a splendid castor cup and we bought a barrel of them.

They are made of deep, heavy,
smooth glass. The castors can't slip out, and the surface is so smooth that it slides easily over the highest polished floor without leaving a trace of a mark. Much better than the old wooden kind.

As good as indestructible.

And only 12 cents apiece.

LAUGHTER AND TEARS.

A Comedy Scene in Which Grief Played a Leading Part.

"Stage fright is not one of the emotions which get across the footlights," writes Miss Alice Crawford. "Audiences are for the most part as serenely unconscious of it as they are of other individual sentiments in the actors having no relation to the incidents of the play."

"I shall never forget an instance of this curious insensibility of the crowd. Once when I was touring one of the most charming and popular girls of the company died after only a few days' illness. She was one of those sweet, tranquil natures and had endeared herself to us all. Her death in lodgings in the small provincial town had an element of real tragedy in it."

"The news that she was dead reached the theater in the evening just as two of the actors and I were about to go on for a scene of broad comedy. We went on the stage with tears in our eyes, and I can still see the face of one of those comedians with the great tears glistening on the paint. He was dreadfully affected. Try as he would, he could not control his voice, and the tears kept choking him as he rattled off his lines."

"The audience were convulsed every time his voice broke, and it made me cry more than ever to see the grief shaking him as he grinned and chaffed through his tears. Yet that comedy scene never went so well before. The audience never guessed."—Exchange.

STORY OF A MUD HEN.

And the Man Who Tried to Shoot or Drown the Bird.

"It is a mighty hard thing to down a mud hen," said a Portland official. "Every one knows this homely bird, so clever that it can dodge the flash of a gun, making it very hard to kill if any one ever wanted to kill one."

"A friend of mine who was a great hunter, but not acquainted with the mud hen, was out hunting on the Columbia sloughs some years ago when he saw what he thought was some kind of duck floating on the water. He aimed his shotgun and fired, but the bird dived as the gun was discharged, and the shot struck the water where the bird had been a moment before. As the smoke cleared away the hunter saw the bird come to the surface, and he gave it the other barrel, with the same result."

"His obstinacy was now aroused, and he determined to kill that bird before he left the place. He shot away every round of ammunition he had, but the bird dodged every one and still floated in the same spot. In great disgust my friend sat down on the bank and lit his pipe. At the first puff of smoke the bird dived again, and this gave him his inspiration."

"To make a short story, he smoked up all his tobacco in an effort to drown the mud hen, but when darkness fell and he started for home the bird was still floating in the same old spot."—Portland Oregonian.

A Wedding Ring Superstition. Although there was a lifelong friendship to back up their business deals, the jeweler was not surprised when his old customer who had married a second time bought the wedding ring at another shop.

"If he should take a third wife he would buy the ring at still another store," the jeweler said. "That is one of the superstitions of the trade. A man may have the marrying habit ever so bad and require several wedding rings in his time, yet he never buys any two of them from the same place. Jewelers do not expect it. They don't want to sell two wedding rings to the same man. Had luck would surely light on all concerned, and there is enough trouble in the world anyhow without deliberately inviting more of it by defying a good old wedding ring superstition."—New York Times.

A vicar in England was taken suddenly ill, and his church warden was in great difficulty about getting a substitute when the bishop of the diocese, hearing of the circumstance, offered to take the Sunday services himself. The church warden, wishing "to do the right thing," at the close of the service went up to the bishop and after thanking him stammered out, "A poorer preacher would have done for us, your lordship, but we were unable to find one!"

and at the South Terminal, Boston.

All communications must be accompanied with the name of the writer, and unpublished communications cannot be returned by mail unless
stamps are enclosed.

Notices of all local entertainments to which admission fee is charged must be paid for at regular rates, 15 cents per line in the reading matter, or 25 cents per inch in the advertising columns.

Careful analysis of the recently announced tax rate shows that the chief credit for the great reduction made from last year must be given to the assessor, notwithstanding the popular belief that the mayor is the person principally responsible. One dollar on the thousand will yield approximately $75,000 in revenue, and the figures show that the increased valuations of over $1,600,000 will give one third of that amount, that the reduction in the amount estimated by the assessors for
the overlay will cover another third,
leaving the remaining third for the economies effected in the state, metropolitan, and county taxes, the city appropriations and the treasury balances. It will thus be seen that two thirds of the reduction is clearly the work of our board of assessors. It is interesting to note that the assessors have forestalled possible aldermanic action on the balances of previous overlays by making the current overlay only about one tenth of that of 1910 and previous years. It will be remembered that the aldermen this year took $25,000 from these overlay balances and made a fire insurance fund of it. The assessors evidently do not intend to have this happen again.

The friends of ex-representative
Fred H. Hilton of South Framingham have induced him to enter the field for the Republican senatorial nomination in this district, against Senator H. C. Mulligan of Natick who wishes a fourth term. Mr. Hilton should have good support in this end of the district, because he made a good record when in the House, and because he has some enthusiastic friends here, but principally because I do not believe that residents of this city are very much in favor of retaining the present senator for a fourth term of service.

It is indeed good news to learn that Newton's tax rate of $17.60 is the lowest of any city yet reported in this vicinity, and is just the average of the 32
cities and towns which have been already announced. The highest rate is that of the town of Merrimac with $26,
and the lowest is Nahant with $8.
Brookline, our next door neighbor and rival, has a rate of $12.20 which is 30 cents less than in 1910.

Improve the condition of the Charles river by all means, and incidentally improve the condition of the principal bridge across it at Commonwealth avenue.

What's the Matter With Thomas?

There are some names which seem peculiarly suited to royalty; Louis, for instance, has a kingly sound. Francis,
George, Henry in both spellings,
Charles, William, Edward and James
all have served their turn. Johns there have been, and Stephens. I remember a Robert in Sicily and a Peter in Russia and Serbia. Frederick has often worn the crown, and royal honors are even now paid to Ferdinand in Bulgaria. But was there ever, anywhere, a king named Thomas? Oceans and even Hakens ascend the data, but never through all the centuries Thomas remains the subject, sometimes struggling up to a bishopric or an earldom,
but never attaining the crown. Nicholases wear the imperial purple; Godfrey lord it over Jerusalem; Alexis struts in ermine; Alexanders fare forth to conquest; Julius and Leo don the triple crown, but Thomas, poor plebeian Thomas, has never a crown to his name. Now tell me, you who are wise in the occult influence of names, what is the matter with Tom?—London Idler.

Washington as a Humorist.

While president Washington's humor seemed to find expression in the diplomacy of self protection. A French revolutionist came to him for a general testimonial, which Washington did not care to grant, yet he did not wish to give offense to the French by a curt refusal, so he wrote an evasive card worthy of Lincoln—"C. Volney needs no recommendation from G. Washington."

After Cornwallis' surrender at Yorktown Washington treated him with high consideration. At a dinner given in honor of the distinguished prisoner Rochambeau proposed "The United States" as his toast; Washington responded with "The king of France"; Cornwallis, perforce, faintly suggested
"His majesty," when Washington startled them all by announcing, "The king of England—may he stay there!"
with a ready wit that made even Cornwallis laugh.—Century.

Cards and Card Playing.

In a paper in the Journal of the Royal Society of Arts Professor H. Cheney, discussing the part played by gambling
in magic, observes: "The use of cards
is said to be derived from the Turcocards, which were originally employed for occult purposes. The legend which ascribes the invention of cards to the purpose of amusing a mad king does not seem at all a sufficient explanation, and there is in addition the fact that cards of a kind existed before the said king. In further support of this idea the well known practice of telling fortunes by cards may probably be regarded as a survival of a regular form of divination by such means. It seems,
in fact, that card playing for stakes is a mere development of a ceremony in which individuals consulting the oracle decided to abide by its pronouncements as to the holding of disputed property."

Meteors and the Atmosphere.

One of the most useful results arising from the study of sporadic meteors
is the light thrown upon the question of the height of the atmosphere, since it is the friction of the air that sets them on fire, and if their elevation is known at the moment of their first appearance the probable height of the atmosphere can be calculated. On Aug.
11, 1900, a brilliant meteor happened
to impress its picture simultaneously
on three photographic plates, at Tashkend, Iskander and Tschimgan, in Russian Turkestan. The distances between these places furnished base lines
from which the height could be deduced. The calculation shows that the meteor first appeared at a height of 60.45 miles above the earth and disappeared at 85 miles.

The Orange in Spain.

It is considered a very healthful
thing to eat an orange before breakfast. But who can eat an orange well? One must go to Spain to see that done. The senorita cuts off the rind with her silver knife, then, putting her fork into the peeled fruit, she detaches every morsel with her pearly teeth and continues to eat the orange without losing a drop of the juice and lays down the core with the fork still in it.

Unpalatable.

The Rev. Charles H. Spurgeon was fond of a joke, and his keen wit was,
moreover, based on sterling common sense. One day he remarked to one of his sons:
"Can you tell me the reason why the mons didn't eat Daniel?"
"No, sir. Why was it?"
"Because the most of him was backbone and the rest was grit."—Youth's Companion.

Going the Rounds.

Husband of Tomorrow (reviewing wedding presents)—That awful crust seems familiar. Wife of Tomorrow—
Yes, dear, you saw it at the Browns.
They got it as a wedding present and gave it to the Smiths at theirs. It's the Smiths' present. But never mind,
dear; Harry's wedding comes off soon!
—London Opinion.

Adroit.

"He is what you might call an adroit man."
"Decidedly. His sins never find him out and his debts never find him in."
—Exchange.

Chilly Affair.

Stella—Did you give the bride a shower? Bella—Well, all her friends threw cold water on the bridegroom.—

cesses.—Emerson.

GOLF.

With a card of 87—6—81, R. R. Gorton and Mrs. F. G. Davis captured the honors Wednesday in the members'
mixed foursomes at the Brae-Burn C.
C. while second place went to Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Crecer, who had 92—10—82.

Gorton and Mrs. Davis, but for hard luck at one or two of the holes, had a chance for a much better gross score,
but their figures were only four strokes
above the mixed foursome record for the course held by John G. Anderson and Mrs. Davis.

"Was it a bad accident?" "Well, I was knocked speechless, and my wheel was knocked spokeless."

THEATRES.

The New National Theatre—Early
next month the National Theatre,
the largest vaudeville theatre in the world,
will open in Boston for its first performance. This new theatre, which has a seating capacity of 3,500 people, is located near the corner of Tremont and Berkley streets. It will be devoted to high class vaudeville from the United Booking Offices of America. This company controls all the best and biggest acts in American vaudeville. Two performances will be given daily, and prices
at the matinees will be five and ten cents. Evening prices are five, ten and fifteen cents. Because of the great seating capacity of the National Theatre,
the management is enabled to give high class vaudeville at low prices. Out of town patrons will find it easy to reach the National Theatre. All cars leaving the North Station subway for Tremont street pass the theatre. South Boston, Cambridge, and Columbus Avenue cars reach the theatre. It is only a two minutes ride from the Dover street elevated station, and the Back Bay station is five minutes walk.

Norumbega Park—All records, in point of daily attendance, at Norum-bega Park for past seasons have been broken this, its fifteenth, season. This natural woodland summer resort has been growing steadily in popular favor
during the past few seasons and judging from the approval of the patrons
will continue doing so for many seasons to come. Its excellent facilities for an ideal outing such as the canoeing and boating on the beautiful Charles River,
its famous open air theatre, its Zoological Garden, its beautiful shrubbery and leafy bowers, and its many attractions
in the way of entertainments prove conclusively that Norumbega is the peer of summer parks. This steady increase in popularity is attributed to the fact that the management is constantly on the look-out for new and attractive features. Already plans are being formulated for next season's innovations.
An exceptionally strong vaudeville programme will be offered in the magnificent open air theatre for the coming week beginning Monday, Aug. 21st, with performances every afternoon and evening. Among the headliners will be

LIGHTNING STRIKES

During the sharp thunder storm of last Friday afternoon, lightning struck the northwest pinnacle of the Newton Bank Building in Nonantum square, tearing off a few square feet of the roof tiling and then passing down thru the gutter pipe. The damage is small. A second bolt struck the trolley wire of the Middlesex and Boston Street Railway Co., on Washington street, West Newton and passed down thru car 272 which was eastbound from Natick. The passengers were well frightened, but no damage ensued.

A VIGOROUS PROTEST

How long is the city of Newton to be at the mercy of a big monopoly, viz the Edison Electric Illuminating Co., whose wires are continually destroying trees and apparently no action is being taken by the city Government to prevent it.

Friday evening last, after the heavy thunder storm, one of the largest elms on Otis st., West Newton, was on fire from the trunk near the sidewalk to almost half way up the tree, lighting up the street for a long distance, this tree is probably ruined. Two trees on the street have already been killed by the Edison wires and something should be done to save what is left.

Last fall a petition signed by all the residents of Otis St., in West Newton, urging that the Edison Company be required to place their wires underground was sent to the Mayor and Aldermen but no notice was taken of it, the receipt of it was not even acknowledged.

In a recent issue of the Graphic was displayed a picture of Otis St., showing the beautiful Archway of Elms. Are we to sit still and see this big monopoly who care nothing about our city destroy these trees?

I understand that our city forester Mr. Bucknam, has entered his protest against this destruction of our foliage, but apparently without avail.

If our city Government will take no action in this matter the citizens themselves can force the Edison Co., to remove their overhead wires by refusing to patronize them until they do so.

I hope this matter will be agitated by others in Newton to bring about the desired results and that our city may still be "The Garden City", not only in name but in reality.

INSANE SUICIDE

Rev. Dr. Samuel L. Gracey for many years a consul at China, committed suicide Saturday afternoon at a sanitarium on Washington street, West Newton by cutting his throat with a razor.

He had seemed in the best of spirits since he had been living at the Sanitarium and had spent Saturday morning roaming about the grounds and picking flowers in the garden.

Shortly after 3 o'clock his attendant had stepped out of the room for a few minutes and on her return found him lying on the floor with a severe gash in his throat.

The house doctor was immediately summoned and he ordered his removal to the Newton Hospital only a short distance away in the police ambulance. He succumbed shortly after his arrival there.

Mr. Gracey came to the institution from California three weeks ago accompanied by his son and had always expressed the hope of soon becoming well.

He was born in Philadelphia, September 8th 1835 and graduated from the Philadelphia schools. Leaving a promising business, he entered a theological school in Boston and was ordained to the Methodist Episcopal ministry in Philadelphia, in 1885, receiving his honorary degree from the Illinois Wesleyan university. He had served in the ministry, acting as chaplain of the 6th Pennsylvania Cavalry, during the Civil War and in 1890, was appointed as U. S. Consul, at Fow Chow, China. He has also served in many of the pastorates in this state and during his residence in Salem he represented that district in the general court, being twice elected by a large majority, first in 1887 and again in the following year.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at the Centenary Methodist Episcopal church, Auburndale. The services were attended by a large number of prominent clergymen from Greater Boston.

They were conducted by Rev. Dr. G. S. Chadbourne of Melrose, who delivered the eulogy; Rev. Dr. A. A. Wright of Cambridge, Rev. Dr. Joseph H. James of Rockville, Conn., and Rev. Dr. George Whitaker of Somerville. The casket, banked with a large number of floral tributes, was draped with the American flag, as the deceased served as chaplain of the 6th Penn. cavalry during the civil war.

Following the services the body was taken to Philadelphia, where the interment took place.

PLAN MEMORABLE REUNION.

The reunion will be held in the Sautaug Lak Inn, and it is planned to make the occasion a memorable one. The Nineteenth Regiment served all through the war and in most of the great battles as part of the Army of the Potomac. Messrs Geo. T. Coppins and Albert P. Bugbee of this city were members of the regiment.

POLICEMEN BEATEN

The ball game that has been talked about and anticipated for many weeks took place at Cabot Park yesterday afternoon when the Merchants and the Police team crossed bats.

The former won by the score of 16—13 a score that speaks well for the bunch of old timers that went up against the strong police team. Physical Director Macpherson who used to play with the Springfield Training School team about ten years ago pulled his old suit out and caught for the Merchants, beside his good work behind the bat, he came across with a single and two home runs. Billy Hylands the popular barber and old time college pitcher got into his suit and had the police sluggers at his mercy, allowing only two hits, altho he passed 11 men. Charlie Newcomb who started playing ball when the policemen were in the cradle, played his usual star game at 1st base, and also at the bat. Among the other stars who made up this team were Geo. Wilson at 3d, H. W. Bascom 2d, H. Newcomb 1. f. and s.s., M. Bissell s.s. Geo. Meigs c. f. F. Chivers, r. f.

The police started off with a rush and gathered in 5 runs before the Merchants got into the game, but the 4th inning was a bad one for the blue coats for in that inning the Merchants scored 7 runs. Mahoney who was pitching for the "Cops" was given the hook and Hamman replaced him, and did fine work keeping the game well in hand.

G. Brooks and H. Turner umpired very satisfactorily.

Costigan of the N. C. C. team played short for the Cops and played his usual steady game.

A large crowd witnessed the game, among whom, Chief Coach Sanderson in "Willie Boy" knickerbockers was the most conspicuous. Sanderson devised the famous rule that no policeman was allowed to run bases any faster than he usually patrolled his beat.

The score by innings.

POSTAL SAVINGS BANK.

The postal savings depository cards and stamps have just been put on sale at the Newton branch post office. These cards sell for ten cents each and the stamps to be affixed to them for the same sum. The cards hold nine stamps and when filled can be deposited at the main office in Boston for one dollar. This method is planned to allow the saving of smaller sums than one dollar, which is the lowest amount accepted as a deposit. It is probable that the Newton branch will be designated as a depository station in the near future.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Mr. Bothfield is a member of the executive committee as well. Representative White is identified with the campaign of Representative Robert M. Washburn for the speakership.

BOY DROWNED

Roland Wright, aged 18, the son of Rev. Alfred T. Wright of Parel, Mexico and a resident at the Walker Missionary Home on Hancock street, Auburndale, was drowned in Goshen Lake, Lithia, Mass., Tuesday afternoon.

The young man, who is a graduate of the Newton High School was bathing from a boat in the lake and thinking that the water was shallow he dove from the boat to the water. The water was deep and he sank over his head and not being able to swim he sank below the surface and his body did not rise again. The body was recovered later. The lad, accompanied by his chum, William Chandler, started from home last Monday morning for a long tramp to the Berkshire mountains. They had tramped as far as Lithia and decided that they would stop there at the missionary home for a few days. Wright was a pupil at the public schools here and graduated from the Newton High School with high honors last June. He was awarded a scholarship at Harvard College and was to have entered that institution this fall. The funeral services will be held from the Auburndale Congregational church this afternoon, at 3 o'clock. Rev. Dr. William C. Gordon will officiate and the interment will take place in the missionary lot at the Newton Cemetery.

MISS PAUL DEAD.

She had been an invalid for some years but not seriously until within the last three weeks. She was the daughter of Luther and Rebecca (Crehore) Paul, was born in Newton in 1834 and has made this city her home all her life. The funeral services will be held from the home of her sister on Centre street this afternoon. The Rev. E. M. A DISGRUNTLED
DETECTIVE

By TOM BROWNELL

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Being ambitious after reading sundry detective stories to enter the profession, I went to an office and asked for employment. It happened that a man was wanted to go among a gang of footpads and burglars disguised as one of their kind with a view to learning certain facts concerning them. It was so dangerous a job that no regular detective would undertake it. These men know their own sort and would easily recognize a spy. I, being filled with the romance of detective work without having had any experience, tumbled to an offer of the job at once.

About 11 o'clock at night, disguised as a tough, I reeled into a saloon where my men were supposed to be. I found them there and invited them to drink. I treated several times and thought I was getting in with them when suddenly there was a hammering at the door, and the barkeeper cried: "Police! Git!" The lights went out, and we were all left in the dark, scattering like so many rats. The doors were broken down, and the police rushed in. When the lights were turned on it was found that the barkeeper and I were the only captives. How the rest got away I don't know.

I was taken to a station, and on the way I made myself known to the cop who walked beside me. He gave a broad grin and said that was the most beautiful device of all that was practiced in the criminal profession. I told him he would learn more about that in time. I slept in a filthy cell for the rest of the night and the next day sent word to the detective agency that I would like to have them come and get me out. They sent one of the employees, who had never seen me. Of course the police officers were not going to discharge me on any such evidence, or, rather, want of it, and I told the man to go back and tell the one who had hired me to come and vouch for me.

He didn't come till late in the afternoon, and when he did he didn't recognize me. I told him I was the man he had sent to the saloon for information, but he looked at me contemptuously and said that the man he had sent had likely met with foul play and I was trying to get out of a bad scrape by personating him. He hadn't seen me made up, and my disguise was so perfect that he believed me to be a veritable villain. He went away without being convinced as to my identity, and I was obliged to spend another night in a cell.

A week passed, and I was still a prisoner. Then one day I was indicted as one of the men in the saloon when the police made the raid, who had made away with the detective that the agency had sent out. In other words, I was charged with being my own murderer. Upon inquiry I learned that the man who had thus been sent out on a mission had disappeared, and it was supposed he had been dispatched by the gang.

Here was a pretty how-de-do. I called again for the man who had sent me out, but he refused to come to see me, and I couldn't go to see him. I doubted if it would do any good if he came. He had never seen me but once, and then but for a moment. How could he be expected to recognize me in my rough garb, especially as in the saloon scuffle I had been very badly mauled?

I sent for a lawyer and told him my story. He appeared to believe me, but said there would be no use in putting such a story before a jury. It was so palpably false that it would prejudice my case. He said he would try to get up a defense that would seem more probable. I asked him if there was anything more probable than that a man could not have murdered himself and be alive. He replied that I would have to prove my identity, which was impossible. He would try to think of some method of defense that would be easier to prove than the truth. "We lawyers don't care anything," he said, "for the truth. What we want is something we can prove. An alibi affords the best chance."

When I came to be tried for being implicated in my own murder there was no proof against me except that I was known to have gone to the saloon from which I had disappeared and was one of the gang of rascals which was raided. This was considered prima facie evidence that I, probably with others, had killed myself. It was evident that I would get a long term on general principles.

My lawyer's method was very ingenious. Having entered my claim to be another person than myself, John Borland, he brought John Borland's mother into court to swear that her son on the night of the supposed murder was at home and in bed. Another witness, who lived in the same house, swore to the same thing. Then my lawyer called upon the policeman who had arrested me to swear that I had been found in and taken from the saloon. The lawyer so badgered the policeman that he was not sure of me. Thus an alibi was established.

I was acquitted. But I didn't continue the detective business. I had had all of that romantic occupation I wanted. Detectives are all right in novels and in plays, but when it comes to the real thing they don't lead an easy life. Joe Petrovino, for instance, was one of the cleverest and most daring, but they got him.

WHEN I WAS YOUNG

By F. A. MITCHEL

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

When I was young, having procured an outfit of several camels, which I owned, and a score of blacks, whom I hired, I started southward from Tripoli to do a little exploring of the great desert of Sahara. I certainly couldn't explore much of it, for it is larger in area than the United States and only parts are ordinarily traversed. I chose to make an expedition straight south to the Sudan, along the route of caravans trading with that region. It is an ocean of sand, with billows of land except in spots where there are oases.

On the route we fell in with an Arab wanderer named Mohammed. Not all orientals are named Mohammed, but a large number are. He said he was a trader, but one of my men said that the way he traded was one-sided. He gave nothing—unless bullets—for something. In other words, he was a robber.

But, like most of these people, he was very smooth spoken. He pretended to take a great fancy to me; said that he had heard that America was the greatest country in the world, and he was quite sure I was the greatest American. To prove his admiration for and confidence in me, he invited me to his camp and introduced me to his wives. There was one young and quite pretty (for an Arab) woman among them who, it seemed to me, was especially cordial to me. I could only judge by the looks she gave me, for she did not know my language nor I hers. Salam, my chief man, remarked to me that he had noticed the woman's preference for me. But, having no desire to get myself murdered on account of an Arab's wife, I did not propose to encourage the lady.

Muhammed journeyed beside us for several days, camping when we camped and moving when we moved. Had it not been for Salam I would have considered that the man had conceived a great regard for me, so naturally did he feign it. Salam said that he was familiarizing himself with our strength, our arms and the value of the loot to be acquired in case of a successful attack. Salam also ventured the opinion that the wife who was so favorably disposed toward me was probably intending, by her husband's order, to lure me into some position by which I could be put out of the way. Then my belongings would easily fall into Muhammed's hands. This view of the case did not favor the concept of a man of twenty-two, and I did not believe him.

One evening my Bedouin admiral came to my camp to announce the fact that the next morning at dawn he would separate from us, going off to the east toward Marzuk. My intention being to proceed on my way to Ghat. He invited me to sup with him. Being young—as I have said before—I had a fancy to see once more the woman who had apparently conceived a regard for me. I desired to form an opinion as to whether Salam or I was right as to the genuineness of her demonstrations. I supped with her husband, but he kept his wives out of the way. This seemed to me to prove that there was, nothing in Salam's theory. The trader feasted me royally and when I left embraced me with tears in his eyes.

"Whoever says," I remarked to Salam when I returned to my camp, "that an Arab is incapable of friendship doesn't know your race."

Salam made no reply, but did not seem especially impressed with my appreciation of the guileless nature of his brother Bedouins. Two days after this we encamped one evening on the desert. It was a lonely spot, though no more lonely than all other spots on the Sahara. I was standing after dark admiring the bright stars above, contrasting with the monotonous scene below, when I heard the faintest kind of a sound within a few feet of me. It was like a spent bullet hitting soft earth. Turning, I saw an object a few feet from me. Going to it, I found an arrow sticking in the sand. Taking it up, I discovered a bit of wood tied to it. Taking it into my tent, where I had a light, I saw Arabic writing on one side. I called Salam and asked him to interpret it. He read it to himself and looked up at me with fear in his face.

"What is it?" I asked.

"It says, 'Make the fonduk.'"

The fonduk is a caravansary where caravans may get food, water and what is often more desirable, safety.

"From whom did it come?" I asked.

"There is no one near us."

"Mohammed is near. I suspect that he intends to fall upon us tonight. He will probably kill you, then give the rest of us bakshesh to keep silent."

"But who could have sent this warning?"

"I think I have been wrong. The woman who saw you has really been captivated. It is she."

I told Salam to break camp, load the camels, and we would proceed on our journey.

While the preparations were being made I went out again to be alone with the sky and the desert. A new feeling had entered my breast. For the first time in my life I was conscious that a woman loved me. But I knew at the same time that our paths would be as wide apart as those of the great desert.

Before day dawned we made the fonduk.

IMPORTANT FACTS AND SUGGESTIONS FROM CITY OFFICIALS

DR. FRANCES GEO. CURTIS.
Chairman Newton Board of Health.

MR. EDWIN O. CHILDS, JR.
Member of Newton Board of Health.

The annual report of the board of Health for 1910 shows that there were 62 cases of diphtheria in the city with but 4 deaths, or a case mortality of but 6.40 per cent, 236 bacteriological examinations for the bacilli were made of which 206 were negative.

Dr. Curtis, the chairman of the board made some interesting statements regarding scarlet fever. There were 118 cases and but 2 deaths, a remarkably low mortality of this dreaded disease. The number of cases were below the average the first part of the year, but increased rapidly in November. These cases were evidently "milk borne", 7 cases being reported in 72 hours.

It will be news to many to learn that there were two cases of small pox in Newton last year.

It is believed that the history of these two cases illustrates the proper method of handling cases of small pox. The patients were quietly removed to the hospital, all exposed persons were vaccinated and ordered to report in ten days if the vaccinations failed to take, and the houses cleaned. There was no quarantine of suspects, and no alarm in the neighborhood, indeed it is doubtful if in either instance any one outside the houses where the cases occurred knew that there was any trouble. All the general public knew, was that a patient had been removed to the hospital by the department, a matter of almost daily occurrence.

There were 35 cases of typhoid fever with 3 deaths.

The records of the department are most unsatisfactory regarding tuberculosis as patients are continually moving out of the city or going to sanatoria without notifying the board.

The tuberculosis problem is one of the most unsatisfactory of all those which confront Boards of Health, and the question whether it is being properly solved often arises.

One result of all this work is that the danger from tuberculosis is strongly emphasized, and the public is constantly being confronted with this element of danger, and is rapidly developing a severe case of phthisiophobia. This indiscriminate fear of tuberculosis undoubtedly inflicts great and unnecessary hardship in many cases.

The fact that a person has tuberculosis, or any disease to which the adjective "tubercular" can be added is often sufficient to cause him to be shunned by his acquaintances and is often the cause of his being deprived of an opportunity of earning his livelihood.

The public should understand that there are forms of tuberculosis which are not dangerous and that all consumptives are not dangerous to others, in fact only a small percentage are dangerous, and that to shun a man simply because he has consumption is cruel and unjust.

The board has made a number of experiments for the purpose of testing the value of disinfection as a means of controlling communicable disease by destroying the specific organisms.

The experiments were carried out under service conditions, and various methods were tried. It would be impossible to give these experiments in detail, but the results showed that disinfection, as commonly done by Boards of Health, is practically useless as a means of preventing communicable disease.

A summary of the results is of interest. There were 82 separate test cultures examined and 17 of these were negative. Of these 17, there were 5 in which both the test and the corresponding control were negative, showing that the cultures died from some cause other than the disinfectant used. This leaves twelve instances where a negative test was found, when the control was positive, or a little over 23 per cent, leaving out of account those instances where both test and control died. This is not a strong showing in favor of the value of disinfection.

The theory of the value of disinfection rests upon two hypotheses, first that infection is transmitted by the room where the patient has been and by articles used about the patient during his illness, and second, that disinfection will destroy this infection.

If it can be shown that either or both of these hypotheses are untrue, the theory of the value of disinfection must fall to the ground.

Study of the methods of transmission of communicable disease has shown that by far the greater number of cases comes from direct contact with "carriers," i. e., well persons who carry the specific organisms of the disease without showing any symptoms, or "missed cases", persons who have the disease very lightly or in an atypical form, so that no diagnosis is made until the occurrence of a typical case in the family draws attention to the missed case.

Further, modern research has shown that most of the specific organisms of disease die very quickly outside of the human body, and that the percentage of cases due to the transmission of infection by means of infected articles or rooms is so small as to be negligible. It has also been shown that even in hospital wards used for diphtheria the number of times that the bacilli can be found adhering to walls or articles is very small, in one instance four times out of 532 tests, and in another none out of 200. From these facts it follows that there is very little to disinfect in the ordinary room or article, and as further experiments have shown that even when an article has been infected purposely, ordinary disinfection fails to destroy the infection, it certainly seems that it is safe to infer that disinfection plays a very small part in the control of communicable disease.

If we could once learn to put nothing into our mouths except what belongs there, and particularly to keep our fingers out of our mouths and to wash our hands frequently after handling various articles, we should be less likely to catch disease.

The mouth is a convenient hold all, and if a person were once to realize how often he puts promiscuous articles into his mouth he would certainly be surprised and perhaps shocked.

Personal cleanliness is much cheaper than disinfection and much more effective as a means of preventing the spread of communicable disease, but it is much more difficult to carry out.

Further than this, it is probable that the practice of routine disinfection after communicable disease has a distinct influence in lessening the proper precautions which should be taken, for it directs the attention of the laity to the danger of transmission of infection by means of infected articles, a danger which is so slight as to be practically negligible under ordinary conditions, and prevents proper emphasis being laid upon the danger of contact infection from carriers and missed cases.

For these reasons the Board is seriously considering the advisability of discontinuing routine disinfection after communicable disease.

Although no provision was made for a school nurse in the annual appropriation, it was decided that one nurse at least should be appointed in order to test the value of the work. Miss Gertrude Melick was appointed and began work early in January with five schools. The work of the nurse proved of great value and the other schools which had no nurse were constant in their requests to have her detailed to visit them.

The work of the nurse consists in supplementing the work of the school doctor, taking it up where he leaves off and carrying it on, even into the homes of the children.

In addition to what may be called her specialized work of helping the school doctor, a very valuable part of her work consists in teaching the children, both by example and precept, the advantages of personal cleanliness. In these days, when we believe that infection enters largely through the mouth, the nurse can do very effective work in teaching the care of the mouth and the dangers which may come to a person through that opening.

The work of the school nurse proved of such value that it was decided to increase the service during the coming year by the appointment of two more nurses who should cover all the schools in the city.

The board is seriously considering the question of disposition of garbage although the present contract does not expire until May 1912.

The board considers the bath house at Crystal Lake, although crude and inconvenient, as one of the most useful institutions in the city and urges the purchase of a suitable location and erection of a proper bathhouse. Over 11,000 persons used the Crystal Lake house last year and over 2800 at Upper Falls.

The board has a list of 1644 complaints during the year, over 600 being connected with the garbage question.

202 cattle were licensed, 7499 live fowl, and 299 swine authorized to be kept. 20 houses ordered connected with the sewer, 5 houses vacated, and 2868 sanitary inspections made.

202 cattle were licensed, 7499 live nervous diseases, 47 from apoplexy, 28 from consumption, 47 from heart disease, 39 from pneumonia.

The Inspector of Milk made his annual report to the board of health and it is interesting to note that the consumption of milk has decreased from 21,000 quarts daily in 1900 to 17,491 quarts daily in 1910. The Inspector states, that "the consumption of milk has decreased as the price has advanced, but as the regulations governing the production and handling of milk are more stringent, the employment of more intelligent and efficient help is required, with more time and work expended in keeping the premises, animals and utensils in more cleanly condition, and the cost of production and retail price of milk must continue to increase. The consumer should realize that clean milk, even at a higher price per quart is cheaper in the end than is dirty milk, and if the consumer desires clean milk he must be willing to pay for it."

The yearly supply of milk and cream delivered in Newton is estimated at $753,849.10.

AN ARMY LOVE AFFAIR

By JOHN ADAMSON

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

The United States army and navy, which used to be very aristocratic institutions, are, like everything else, becoming democratic. The old army before the civil war was like one family—that is, the officers and their wives and children constituted one select social circle. Recently there have been several episodes to indicate that the old spirit is dying, but dying hard. The following story illustrates this:

I was graduated at West Point at twenty, and I don't know a more dangerous age than that for a young officer. His pay enables him to marry. He has seen nothing of the world and nothing of the opposite sex except for a couple of months each summer for two years during the encampment season while he was a cadet. Released from a confining life, he is ready to fall in love with the first girl he meets. I was graduated in the engineers, and the first job I was given by the government was making an estimate on certain intended repairs on a fort on the Atlantic coast in a southern state. The fort had not been kept up, having been left in charge of an ordnance sergeant, but in view of a feeling on the part of the people of the United States that our coast defenses needed strengthening the government decided to look into the matter.

Fort L. was situated on a point of land extending into the ocean and as lonely as a lighthouse. For a few months in the spring the neighborhood was a resort for northern persons, chiefly invalids, there being several hotels on the beach. I was sent to the fort in October. When I first saw the old pile with its empty casemates and empty quarters I shuddered at being obliged to pass some time there. The sergeant made me as comfortable as he could in a casemate, his wife taking pains that it should be clean, and my bed was provided with snow white linen.

And now comes the point of my story: The couple had a daughter seventeen years old. What could I do? What did I do but make love to her. I knew perfectly well that there is a barrier in the army between the families of commissioned and noncommissioned officers. I knew furthermore that Mary Converse was getting no education and had never mingled with the class of people to whom I was used. If I married her it would place her out of her element and she would be a lifelong drag on me.

But here was I in the springtime of life, shut up with a girl in a fortress and no other associate. I doubt if any precaution would have availed. She was situated just as I was, shut up with a young soldier, and could no more resist a natural drift toward me than I toward her.

Before leaving I asked Mary Converse to be my wife. I knew I was wronging her and myself in doing so, but I had conceived high notions of honor at West Point and considered myself pledged to her. At her age, and being one of those feminine girls who when they love love hard, I believed that if I deserted her it would wreck her life. So I went away engaged, well knowing that if I did not desert her both our lives would be wrecked. My first visit to my fiancée was in the following spring. The hotels on the beach were now open, and I took up my quarters in one of them. Some seven months only had elapsed, and Mary was not much changed. I felt the same toward her as before. The reasons I attributed this to are that it was a case of young and innocent love, and Mary was a superior girl. She was bright, she had what we call character, and she was pretty.

At the hotel I met a Mrs. Boyington, the wife of an army officer, who conceived a marked friendship for me. She was twenty years my senior, and I craved some one on whom to bestow my confidence. So I told her of my affair.

"It must be broken off," said the lady, "both on your account and the girl's."

"She will not be able to endure it without serious consequences," I replied.

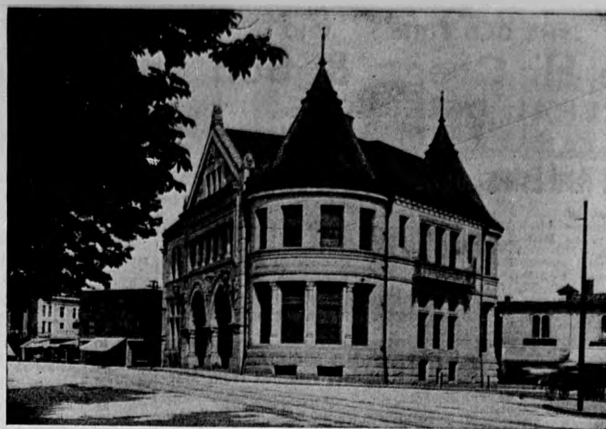

Our talk ended in the lady's going to see my betrothed. On her return she handed me a note from Mary badly written, misspelled and blotted with tears, in which she said that Mrs. Boyington had convinced her that she would harm me and herself by marrying me and she released me.

I was so far attached to her that I spent some time making up my mind to accept the release.

After that I met many young ladies, but none of them pleased me. I was preoccupied with my first love. Indeed, I did not propose to replace her. Since the difference in our stations prevented our marriage I would marry no one. At intervals I met Mrs. Boyington, to whom I told my feelings.

"Don't talk that way at your age," she replied. "You'll surely find some one you can love."

Six years later Mrs. Boyington and I met at the same station. She asked me to dine with her, and whom should I meet at her quarters but Mary Converse, but not so far as education and manners were concerned, the simple Mary Converse of years before. Mrs. Boyington had educated her and given her many social advantages. She had been as true to me as I had been to her, and before we parted our engagement was renewed.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by Anthony G. Neary to Harry B. Knowles dated July 30, 1910 and recorded with Suffolk County, Book 3470, Page 3, and with Middlesex South District Deeds Book 3541, Page 51, for breach of the conditions thereof and for the purpose of foreclosing the same will be sold at public auction on Monday, September 18, 1911, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage except that portion which has been released by a partial release dated 1910 and recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds Book 3551, Page 526. Said premises are situated partly in Boston in the County of Suffolk and partly in Newton in the County of Middlesex and are bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at the western corner of Lake Street and Commonwealth Avenue in said Boston, and running northeasterly on said Lake Street about three hundred (300) feet to land now or formerly of Sullivan; thence turning and running northeasterly on the line of said Sullivan and of the Eliot P. Gifford Home about five hundred and sixty-nine and 82-100 (569.82) feet to a corner; thence turning and running southeasterly on land now or formerly of Dana Estes about five hundred and fifty-nine and 90-100 (559.90) feet to Commonwealth Avenue; thence turning and running easterly on said Avenue about six hundred and eighty-five and 68-100 (685.58) feet to the point of beginning, and containing about two hundred fifty-six thousand, four hundred and forty-four (256,444) square feet of land, of which about one hundred and seventy-seven thousand, nine hundred and ninety-nine (177,999) square feet are situated in said Newton and the west of boundary line between said Newton and said Boston and about seventy-eight thousand four hundred and seventy-seven (78,477) square feet are situated in said Boston. Excepting from the above-described premises so much thereof as was conveyed to the City of Boston by Daniel Knowles by deed dated March 16th, 1849, recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds, Book 349, page 374, for the Cochituate Aqueduct; later included in the taking by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, but with the benefit of the rights of passage over the same reserved in said deed.

Also excepting from the above-described land the following two (2) parcels: The first parcel is situated at the corner of Commonwealth Avenue and Lake Street in that part of Boston formerly Brighton, County of Suffolk and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a point on the northerly side line of Commonwealth Avenue distant easterly seven and sixty-six one-hundredths (7.66) feet (measured along said side line) from a stone bound marking an angle point in the division line between the City of Boston and the City of Newton; and running in an easterly direction by said side line of Commonwealth Avenue by a curve to the right with a radius of four thousand three hundred thirteen and ten one-hundredths (4,313.10) feet, a distance of eighty-nine and four one-hundredths (89.04) feet to a point of reversed curvature; thence by a curve to the left with a radius of thirty-one (31) feet, a distance of forty-one and seventy one-hundredths (41.70) feet to a point on the westerly side line of Lake Street; thence in a northerly direction by said side line of Lake Street a distance of seventy-seven and sixty-four one-hundredths (77.64) feet to the point of beginning; thence in a westerly direction by said land of grantor by a curve to the left with a radius of four thousand three hundred thirteen and ten one-hundredths (4,313.10) feet a distance of one hundred thirty-eight and eight one-hundredths (138.88) feet, said last-mentioned line being parallel with and one hundred (100) feet distant from the northerly side line of Commonwealth Avenue; thence in a southerly direction still by land of said grantor by a line radial to last-mentioned curve a distance of one hundred (100) feet to the point of beginning and containing twelve thousand and five hundred (12,500) square feet more or less.

The second parcel was undetermined in said mortgage deed but in accordance with the provisions thereof has since been determined and has been released from the said mortgage by partial release dated 1910 and recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds Book 3551, page 526. The premises released in said partial release deed are bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a point on the northerly side line of Commonwealth Avenue distant four thousand and three hundred thirteen and ten one-hundredths (4,313.10) feet from the northerly side line of Dana Estes and running in a northerly direction by a radial line a distance of one hundred (100) feet; thence in a southerly direction by a line parallel with and sixty-six (66) feet distant from the first described line a distance of one hundred thirteen and seventy-three one-hundredths (113.73) feet; thence in an easterly direction a distance of sixty-six (66) feet; thence in a southerly direction along said line of Commonwealth Avenue by a curve to the left with a radius of four thousand three hundred thirteen and ten one-hundredths (4,313.10) feet a distance of sixty-six (66) feet to the point of beginning, containing seven thousand and five hundred (7,500) square feet.

Friends of Mr. Frederic H. Hilton of Framingham are taking active steps to present his candidacy for the republican nomination for state senator, before the voters of this city. The position taken last week by the Graphic has been favorably commented upon by those who thoroughly understand the situation, and there can be no question but what the best interest of this end of the district will be served by awarding the nomination to Mr. Hilton.

Critics of the recent action of the city government in selling unused land on Circuit avenue, may be interested to learn that the new owner has plans out for a modern house to cost at least $6200. The taxable value of this property for many years in the future will be an asset to the city which may offset present day scoffing.

The value of the milk used in Newton is estimated at three quarters of a million dollars. No wonder Newton has a live interest in the fate of the Ellis Milk Bill.

THEATRES.

Tremont Theatre—"Excuse Me",
Henry W. Savage's production of Rupert Hughes' episodic farce inaugurated the season at the Tremont Theatre Monday night and as was expected of it, proved an immediate and immense success. The reviewers of the Boston newspapers were unanimously enthusiastic in its praise. The Globe referred to the first performance as
"one long, unbroken laugh" and each of the other important journals was as heartily and sincere in commendation. The novelty of "Excuse Me" is alone sufficient to earn for the production an unusual amount of interest, and this combined with its clean humor, the mirth provocative of its clever situations and entanglements, and its presentation by a cast that is individually and collectively brilliant makes the attraction of the piece well nigh irresistible. All of the action of the farce takes place aboard an overland limited train, and the story is nothing more or less than the experiences of a number of widely contrasting types which make up the passenger list, a great many of those experiences being originated, or accentuated by the actions of a typical, fat, black, good natured and characteristically witty porter. A hold-up of the train which is presented with such careful attention to truthful detail that provides a real thrill for the audience
in its illusion of actuality brings the journey to a sudden end, and provides the means for the various members of the train party who have managed to get their auras mixed enroute to straighten them out again. The reception given "Excuse Me" in Boston has been sufficiently cordial to justify the prediction that it will remain the attraction at the Tremont Theatre for several months at the very least.

THE "NIGGER TEACHER"

By WALTER B. HENDRICKS

Copyright by American Press Association, 1917.

"Were you here when the war broke out?" I asked a citizen of Alabama during a visit to that state in 1868.

"Waal, yes, I reckon I war hyar
about that time."

"Do you remember Cyrus Vanderveer?"

"Reckon I do remember Cyrus Van-deveer. Nobody who was hyar when he was hyar 'll forgit him, I reckon."

"Do they remember him kindly or unkindly?"

"They remember him mighty kindly about the time he went away, but when he first came down hyar they didn't take to him at all."

"What changed them? Tell me all about it."

"Well, sub, Cyrus Vanderveer was one of them abolitionists that didn't know enough to let the southern people alone to do what they liked with their niggers. At that time we didn't want our slaves to know too much, fo'
if they did we would lose our property.
Vanderveer set up a school fo' the blacks. Some of our most influential citizens went to him and protested.
He said that he believed it to be his duty to teach 'em, and he proposed to go on with the work."

"They went away and consulted, but they didn't say anything mo' to Vanderveer, who continued teachin' the niggers. That was just befo' the war, and we was all gittin' mighty hot down hyar. Finally one night Vanderveer's schoolhouse was observed to be on fire. The darkies ran fo' buckets to put water on it, but the committee stopped 'em, tellin' 'em they couldn't put on any water. Co'se the niggers was mighty cut up about this, and it made a heap o' trouble among 'em.
The schoolhouse burned to the ground,
and there was nothing left but a few charred timbers. Vanderveer wasn't nigh. He had gone to see a sick darty that had been one of his scholars and didn't get back till his schoolhouse was burned to ashes."

"That was a very dry season, there
not having been any rain fo' months.
After the fire everybody went to bed.
The wind rose, and—well, some s'pose
it carried a spark, and some s'pose the spark got lodged in the shingles of the roof when the schoolhouse was burning. Anyhow, about 11 o'clock
there was an alarm o' fire at Cunnel Woodbridge's house. The cunnel was playin' a game o' draw at Major Atwa-ter's with Captain Sykes. Cunnel Thorpe and several other influential citizens. They had burned the schoolhouse and afterward gone to Major Atwater's fo' a julep and a game o' cyards. Cunnel Woodbridge started up when somebody rushed in and told him
his house was afire, sayin' he had left his little gal thar alone. The cunnel was a widower, with this little daughter, about twelve years old."

"By the time the pokin' party got to the house the downstairs was burnin', and nobody could get upstairs. Little Mary Woodbridge ran to a window and, seein'
her father below by the light o'
the flames, stretched out her arms to him and cried out:

"Papa, save me!"

"I was lookin' myself at the cunnel,
and I never saw such an expression
of agony on a man's face in my life.
No one could get up to the child, fo'
everything below was afire."
"Just then a man come along and took in the situation. He was that cursed nigger teacher. He was young and active as a cat. There was a rusty lightning rod in a corner of the house runnin' up right to the window
whar the gal was. Vanderveer be tuk hold of it and shinned up to the window and reached out an arm. The gal tuk hold of it and swung down beside the abolitionist, who held on to the rod with the other hand."

"Waal, there he was. He couldn't come down hand or hand with only one hand, and he couldn't hold on long. Anyhow, it was gittin' hotter
all the while, and he and the gal wud burn to death. But he hung on. While he was thar the room whar the child had been burst into a flame. It looked as if both of 'em must perish when some one come with a ladder and, puttin' it up to 'em, Cy dropped Mary on to it and she got down. Then Cy followed her."

"You just orter seen Cunnel Woodbridge when he got his daughter from the man whose schoolhouse he had helped to burn. And his burnin' the schoolhouse was what burned his own house, and if it hadn't been for Cy Vanderveer wud 'a' burned Mary."

"That was the night befo' Fo' Sumter was fired on, and the next mornin'
when they looked fo' Cyrus Vanderveer
he wa'n't no whar to be found. They reckoned he'd lit out to the north to fight the south."

"What's become of Mary Woodbridge?" I asked.

"Oh, she's livin' here with her aunt.
She's grown up now. Lots o' young fellars want to marry her but she says
she's waitin' fo' that nigger teacher that saved her from burnin'."

"Where can I find her?"

"Over thar in that white house." As I walked away he called: "Say, stranger, what do you want of her?"
"I'm the nigger teacher. I've been waitin' for her too."

A WIDOW'S
OLD HORSE

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.

One day the Widow Saunderson
was in town, and she found a horse auction going on. The last of the bunch to be put up was an old gray mare. She was skin and bone and then some more. The auctioneer did not slander her character when he called her an old skink.

There was a general laugh of contempt over the old mare, and then some one bid $2. Out of pure sympathy the widow bid a dollar more,
and the nag was hers. She was gayed
by the crowd, but the prize was hitched behind the wagon and reached the farm in due time without having once fallen by the wayside. There were two hired men to grin and chuckle and talk about crow banquets, but the woman silenced them with:

"Get along, you idiots! Turn that horse out to grass and take good care of her. If she dies her bid will be worth all I paid for her whole body."

This was early in the spring. When the old mare began to fill up she began to improve. In a month her ribs could no longer be counted from the highway, and she began to gambol a bit. It was when another horse was turned into the lot with her of a Sunday that the surprise came. One of the men came up to the house and said to Mrs.
Saunderson:

"Say, you come down to the fence
and see that old mare!"

"Dead, is she?"

"Dead! Why, she's the liveliest old nag you ever set eyes on! Come down!"

The two horses were having a play.
It was a ten acre meadow, and they were circling it. The farm horse was on the gallop and the old mare on the trot, and yet he could not leave her behind.

"She got that gait before a sulky for sure," said the man.

"Looks like it to me," replied the widow. "After this you feed her a few oats every day and use the curry-comb, and don't either one of you boys
say a word outside."

The Akron county fair, always held late in September, ranked next to the state fair. Some said the horse racing was even better, because the track was better. When the opening of the entries was announced the Widow Saunderson said to one of her men:

"Joe, here's the money to enter Lady
Gray. You can claim to be the owner.
You go over to Johnsonville and borrow or buy a sulky and get it here on the fly. The old mare is going into the free for all, and you are going to drive her."

And a few days later she said to the other man:

"Tim, here is a hundred dollars.
You go to town and loaf around for two or three days. Bet the money on our horse. Get the best odds you can."

When dry and date came they booted the widow's hired man and his equine. They had bet 5 to 1 before, now they bet 15 to 1. The widow had $400 in the bank. She drew every dollar of it out, and Tim placed it on the mare.

That was a race that is talked of
yet. A green driver, an old sulky and a farm horse. As soon as the mare got on to the track her actions betrayed the fact that it was a familiar scene to her, and her driver had the sense to let her take her own way instead of handling her about. When the bunch got away at last he simply held his horse steady and prayed with all his might. She had "gone some" on the highway, but she seemed to be flying now. She picked up horse after horse until she had the lead, and she came in winner by such a distance
that the other horses were booted off
the track. Not a skip, not a break—
just a fast and steady pace, and a driver who was so scared that he had to be helped down from his seat.

The roll of money gathered in by the Widow Saunderson on her wagers and by the sale of the mare after the race was exactly the size of a fifteen cent
tomato can. With the bundle in a pillowcase she called on the minister of her church a few days later and said:

"Parson, I know you have figured things up. How much to palat the meeting house?"

"A hundred and fifty dollars," he replied.

"And how much for pew cushions?"

"A hundred."

"And for the red carpets in the aisles?"

"Fifty will do it."

"And can't we get an organ for $500?"

"We certainly can."

"And a bell?"

"Two hundred."

"And how much salary is due you?"

"Well—ahem—well, I don't like to say so, but the sum is about $200."

son," said the widow as she handed over the "tomato can."

"But, widow, I don't understand."

"Woa it at the county fair the other day."

"Then I can't take it. It is tainted money."

"Parson, don't be an idiot! The men who paint the meeting house will swear. The men who cast the bell will swear. There'll be swearing over the cushions and carpets and organ.
There'll be tainted money just as much as this money. You want to swear over your back salary, and by gum, I'll do some swearing if you don't take the money! There, now!"
And the parson took it.

THEATRES.

B. F. Keith's Theatre—Charles J.
Ross and Mabel Fenton who for years were stars with the Weber-Fields' aggregation make their first appearance in vaudeville in Boston at B. F. Keith's Theatre next week in a new sketch written by Mr. Ross entitled "Just Like a Woman." It was first produced in New York last week and made one of the biggest successes of the season, so that it was instantly engaged for the Boston House. They will be the principal features on an exceptionally strong
bill with a number of new features,
one of which will be the Aurora Troupe of cyclists who arrived in this country
a short time ago and made a great sensation. The week will also mark the return after a long absence of J. K. Murray and Clara Lane, who have just returned from a successful tour of the Pacific Coast and who will appear in a new singing and talking comedy. Others will be Felix Adler, the plain clothes man; Flannagan and Edwards in a sketch "On and Off"; Harry Richards and Co., in a comedy sketch, Ray and Rogers; Whittier the ventriloquist, who looks like Roosevelt and the Pelotz a European Novelty Company.

Boston Theatre—That sparkling and speedy French farce "The Girl in the Taxi" began its two weeks engagement
at the Boston Theatre last Monday evening before an audience that crowded the big playhouse to the last inch of standing room. Judging by the large attendance and the enthusiastic applause and laughter the sprightly play
which ran in Boston for three months
last summer is going to prove a very welcome visitor this season. The curtain went up at eight o'clock prompt and the fun began at one minute past that hour, continuing for two hours and a half with such success that the large playhouse was kept in a constant uproar. The antics of "the girl in the taxi" and her numerous admirers, seasoned as they were with a dash of spice
to convey the flavor of the Gay White Way, served to chase away all thoughts of care as she went dashing along at a break-limit speed over hills and through gales of hilarity. The company presenting "The Girl in the Taxi" at the Boston Theatre is headed by Mr. Bobby Barry, one of the younger well-known comedians of the George M. Cohan type.
Mr. Barry, who is a son of old "Billy"
Barry the eminent comedian, by the way
gave us a laughable picture of a youth on his first outing with a member of the opposite sex. His scenes in the restaurant, where he attempts to buy Mignon, "the taxi girl" a twenty dollar
dinner with but five dollars in his pocket, aroused the greatest merriment and showed him to be a comedian of great subtleness and unusual talent. Julie Ring was the dashing Mignon and she is to be commended for a clever impersonation of the role of the lady with tight gowns and loose morals who has a fondness for late suppers and youths with a bank roll. Others in the cast to score merited individual successes were Helena Salinger, Harry Hanlon, Frank
Farrington, Jeanette Bageard and Jean Salisbury. The play will terminate its brief engagement September 2nd. Main inices are played Wednesday and Saturday and a feature of this engagement
is the announcement that 800 orchestra seats are no reserved at $1.00. It's a bally, laughable play, the best in town.
Don't miss it.

Castle Square—The fourth season of the Castle Square under John Craig's direction begins next Friday evening, September 1. The box office will open Monday morning at nine o'clock for the sale of seats, and until Friday the workmen will be completing the repairs and renovation, the refurbishing, the redecorating and the recarpeting which has been going on uninterruptedly during the past three weeks. Mr. Craig intends to make the coming season notable in the history of the Castle Square, and to that end he has engaged a first class company of players, and secured a repertory of standard plays of every variety that is certain to please his public. The opening play will be "The Rose of the Rancho," David Belasco's romantic drama which has never before been given in Boston at popular prices.
It is a combination of comedy and emotional drama, of spectacle and picturesque action, and it will be staged with every possible care so as to represent the beautiful scenes of Southern California. Its plot concerns the fortunes of a Mexican maiden and an American visitor to that region, and its acts pursue their way amid the most romantic of scenes and a number of strikingly sensational hairbreadth escapes. "The Rose of the Rancho" was first produced on any stage in Boston a few seasons ago, and this production of it at the Castle Square is its first return since then. The cast will do full justice to the play. The role of Juanita, who gives her romantic nickname to the play, will be acted by Mary Young, and it will bring out all her powers. Kearney, a lover, will give Mr. Craig an effective character, while Don Luis, his rival,
will be in the hands of Morgan Wallace, who becomes a regular member of the company. Other principal roles will be played by George Hassell, Walter Walker, Al Roberts, Robert Middleman, Gertrude Binley, Mabel Colcord and Florence Shirley.

Grand Opera House—There is probably no character in history that has been more abused, burlesqued and falsely presented than the American Indian. It has remained for Della H. Clarke, in her romantic American drama, "The White Squaw", which will be next week's attraction at the Boston Grand Opera House, to show the Aborigine as he really was and is, Miss Clarke has not written an "Indian play", but a story for the stage as sweet and wholesome as a clover field in bloom, and she has made the Redskin a part and parcel of it. The scenes are laid in the forests of Michigan just a century ago, and the characters are practically new to the stage. The story has to do with two sisters who grew up each in ignorance of the other's being. One of them is reared by Indians, and is made to believe she is their own child. Fate throws the sisters together under conditions romantic, dramatic and appealing, and it is from this situation of tender sentiment and strong heart interest that a beautiful and typically American play has been built. The love theme, which is the all-absorbing factor in most successful plays, is vital, while the comedy is a part of the drama, and not dragged in by way of relief. Indians of the real American type, trappers of fur-yielding animals, traders and those hardy pioneers of native progress who blazed the way to our nation's progress are depicted by players of recognized ability, while the scenic effects include a full-sized bark wigwam, with a large collection of Indian relics which it has taken years to collect. Matinees will be given as usual Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

A VERY MEAN FELLOW

By HARRY MENDENHALL
Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

They had arrived at that critical period—an approaching engagement. Every inclination pointed to their forming a binary system, but the slightest jar might disturb the equilibrium and send both far from each other into space. All weaknesses were carefully put away where they could not be seen, and only the noblest sentiments were exhibited. At this juncture he perpetrated a bit of waggery that came very near spoiling the whole thing.

"What I object to in your sex," he said, "is your want of charity for each other."

"Nonsense! We are no more uncharitable toward women than you men are toward men."

"A woman will never forgive a woman for doing what, under similar circumstances, she would do herself."

"Give me an instance."

"Well, if you were to know a girl that a man had kissed?"

"Not being engaged?"

"Not being engaged—you would consider her impure."

"I would consider that he had wronged her."

"And you would condemn her."

"That depends upon circumstances. What man does the kissing?"

"I."

"You?"

"Yes."

"Who is this girl who has so little respect for herself?"

"As Aaron Burr said, 'I never kiss and tell.'"

"When did you kiss her?"

"This morning."

"Where?"

"Down by the lake."

Her tone was getting colder with every question and her color rising with every reply.

"Had you any respect for her?"

"Lots."

"Have you any respect for her now?"

"Just as much as before she kissed me."

"Kissed you?"

"Yes; she gave me the kiss, but I, with mock gravity, 'was too pure minded to keep it. I gave it back to her.'"

"H'm"

There was a silence for some minutes. They were sitting in a rustic seat, the man cutting off overhanging leaves with a slender cane, the girl poking the dirt beneath her with the end of a parasol. He had been making love to her, and she considered that this kissing another girl was abominable and his telling her of it effrontery. Nevertheless she was too proud to reproach him.

"It's time for me to go and dress for dinner now," she said.

"I'm sorry you are going away blaming me for kissing this girl."

"Oh, I suppose you men think you are entitled to take what you can get. You have no principle. I condemn you for that and the girl for permitting you. In this case, since the girl kissed you first, she must be shameless."

They had reached the door, and she went into the house looking very sulky.

During the next few days he was so devoted, even loving, that she forgave him. He said he thought she should forgive the girl he kissed as well, but she replied that her part was not a matter of forgiveness, but of opinion. Her opinion was that a girl who would permit any man to whom she was not engaged to kiss her could have no self respect. As to a girl kissing a man under such circumstances, such a girl was not to be considered by the respectable members of her sex.

The flowers were growing more fragrant and the love passages warmer. She was quite sure he would propose, but he seemed in no hurry to come to the point. She was growing impatient to hear his "story," especially as they were to separate in a few days. While sitting on the rustic seat before mentioned she felt his arm stealing around her waist. He drew her to him till their cheeks were very near. He kissed her.

Her criticism of a few days before had slipped her mind.

He did not propose at the time, but she was sure a proposal was coming. Then one day he told her that he had tested her and found her wanting. She asked him what he meant, and he said that he would not approve of a girl who would permit a man to kiss her to whom she was not engaged.

He must have been a very brave man to do that; certainly he was a very mean one. To drop a spark into a keg of powder would be a comparatively safe thing. She gave him just one look, then got up, and, with head erect, nostrils expanded and eyes flashing, started to walk away from him. But he caught her skirt and held on for dear life. She turned to wield him with another look and saw him with a smile on his lips, a half merry, half frightened look in his eye.

"Forgive me," he said. "The temptation was too great for me."

"Go to that other girl whom you doubtless led."

"Do you know who that other girl is?"

"No, and I don't wish to know."

"She is my little friend Lella. Her age is five. If she didn't kiss me before being engaged to me she never would, for I hope to be married before she is much older."

Peace was declared and they were married, but his wife has never entirely forgiven him.

A Widow and a Railroad

By M. QUAD
Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.

The D. and S. railroad had decided to eliminate a ten mile curve on its line by a cross cut of half the distance. The curve had been made to reach a boom town which had later been fire swept and then abandoned. The Widow Carter, relict of a farmer, lived on the line of the rejected cut-off. It must run between two lakes on her farm, and the isthmus was only seventy feet wide.

There was no doubt on the part of the railroad people that the widow would sell the right of way for $100 or so. One day a company lawyer paid her a call. He was a man of fifty, about the widow's age, and the two had not talked ten minutes before it developed that they used to go to school together as children. When it came to speaking of the right of way the lawyer treated it as a trifling matter. All other landowners on the line had granted it for nothing, but in Mrs. Carter's case they would pay $100 if she would bind herself to keep quiet about it.

"I won't say either yes or no today," she replied. "There's something I want to remember about our school days—some incident of importance that you were connected with. I guess I can think it up tonight, and you can come back tomorrow."

The lawyer departed, thinking the widow a bit odd in her ways, and he was back in due time next day.

"Look here, Sam Davis," said Mrs. Carter as they were seated. "I was purty sure there was some incident, and it has come to me. You know there was a hill back of the school-house at Wharton?"

"Yes."

"And we used to slide down on sleds and boards at recess and after school?"

"So we did."

"One noon you asked me to ride on your sled. Halfway down the hill it upset, and I lost a big cud of gum I was chewing."

The lawyer laughed and slapped his leg, but the widow had a very serious face as she went on:

"And so your old railroad has got to pay me a thousand dollars for the right of way. I'm going to get even for that lost gum."

"A hundred dollars is a big price, widow. It's land that you make no use of."

"But I may decide to make use of it. No; the railroad can have it for a thousand dollars, but not a cent less."

"It can condemn the land under the law, you understand, and in that case it would get it for $10."

"Well, let 'em go ahead."

The railroad company didn't care to go ahead until it had exhausted other means. It would raise its figures, and it would send other lawyers to her. Meanwhile the widow consulted a lawyer in the village. He was a one horse lawyer, but he was posted on the thing she wanted most to know. In certain states a railroad cannot secure the right of way through a dwelling house by condemnation proceedings. If the owner asks an exorbitant figure the value is to be set by three adjacent landowners. This law applied in the widow's case, or soon would. She at once ordered lumber to build a shanty on that isthmus, and within a week she was living in it.

The railroad sent on another lawyer, who offered $200 for the right of way. Mrs. Carter was firm. Then another lawyer and $400. Mrs. Carter was firmer.

Railroads often seize by force what they covet and then fight it out in court. The idea was to do it in this case. Mrs. Carter borrowed every shotgun for a mile around and was ready for battle. She actually fired a charge of bird shot that entered the legs of three trespassers and sent them howling. Then the railroad people got a minister from the village to go down and talk with the widow. He saved his breath, even if he didn't earn his money. The moment she understood his errand she said:

"Now, parson, you don't want to butt into this. Your business is to preach of goodness and heaven and angels. Mine is to beat the railroad. You go right back home and leave me to run things here."

Then the railroad offered $500.

"Just half my figure!" was the woman's reply.

They called for a commission of three to view and value. They were three farmers and were good friends of Mrs. Carter. They put the value at $2,000. One of their reasons was that the passing of trains would make the fish in the two lakes very nervous. Another was that the whistles of the locomotives would prevent the widow from hearing her clock strike and might set her roosters to crowing an hour ahead of time.

When the award was made known the railroad company wanted to settle for $1,500.

"I don't want but a thousand," said the widow. "That has been my finger right along. However, I want Sam Andrews to bring the money and tell me he's mighty sorry about that gum, and if it was to do over ag'in he'd help me to find the cud if it took all day."

And Lawyer Andrews appeared and laid down the yellow backs and made the handsomest kind of an apology, and a month later the railroad was using the short cut and the engines were tooting at Mrs. Carter as she stood in her door.
